CLARENCE HATRY COMMITTED.

IMPORTANT EVIDENCE BY ACCOUNTANT.

DRAMATIC STATEMENT BY CHIEF DEFENDANT.

"ACTION WAS CLEAN."

London, Dec. 16. Clarence Hatry, who, until the crash which rocked the London Share Market to its foundations, was regarded as one of the City's most brilliant financiers, and his three associates in alleged swindles, Edmund Daniels, company director, of Leatherhead, Albert Edward Tabor, company director, of Ashtead, and John Goodfellow, Dixon, secretary and company director, were committed for trial at the Guildhall to-day.

An application for bail made by the counsel for the defendants was refused.

The charges involved a total of over £2,000,000, including over £1,360,000 in connexion with Iron Industries, Limited.

Accountant's Evidence.

The actual losses of the Hatry companies are placed at a much higher figure; but fraud is not alleged in connexion with the entire amount.

Sir Gilbert Garsney, a partner in the world-famous firm of chartered accountants, Messrs. Price, Waterhouse and Company, who has been investigating the affairs of the whole of the Hatry company since the sensational crash of two months or so back, gave evidence to-day.

He stated that the gross liabilities of the companies amounted to the enormous figure of £29,500,000, which did not include the issued share capital of £1,110,000.

Enormous Deficit.

Unsecured claims totalled £13,760,000.

He stated his opinion that there was a very small prospect of a dividend for the unsecured creditors. The deficiency, apparently, will total over £13,500,000.

In the course of his evidence, which caused something of a stir, Sir Gilbert Garsney said that Hatry rang him up on the telephone on September 17th, and said he would very much like to see him.

Hatry's Admissions.

The four defendants visited Sir Gilbert at his office and Hatry, as the spokesman, then admitted immediately that they had been guilty of serious offences in connexion with their companies.

Sir Gilbert added that they had all given loyal assistance during the investigation of the remarkable state of affairs.

Defendants' Incomes.

Questioned regarding the total remunerations paid to the four defendants by the seven companies, the accountant said that:

Clarence Hatry had been paid £22,526 since 1925.

Daniels had received £23,575 since 1925.

Dixon had been paid £1,565 since 1925.

Between October, 1928 and September, 1929, Tabor, the fourth defendant, had received £5,065 from the seven companies.

None of Money Traced.

Answering questions by counsel for the defence, Sir Gilbert Garsney agreed that not a penny of the money which formed the subject of the charge could be traced to the pockets of the defendants personally.

Reading a written statement, prior to his committal for trial, the principal defendant Hatry said: "I am irretrievably ruined, but I shall prove that my actions were clean and creditable, and I shall take whatever punishment is in store uncomplainingly." Reuter.

ILLEGAL SEIZURE OF WORKS.

POLISH GOVERNMENT REFUSES COMPENSATION.

BRITISH DEMANDS.

London, Dec. 16. In the House of Commons to-day, the Foreign Secretary was asked if his attention had been called to the seizure by the Polish authorities of certain works at Radom, near Warsaw, in which a prominent British company has great financial interests.

He was further asked if he was aware that, despite the fact that the Polish Government had admitted that the seizure of the works was wholly unjustified and illegal, the Polish Government had refused any compensation, and that unless this decision were altered the British company in question must apply for the sequestration of the works, involving the closing of the works, and also involving serious loss of employment to British workmen.

Mr. Henderson replied that he was aware of the circumstances of this case and had recently despatched urgent telegraphic instructions to the British Ambassador at Warsaw, whose reply had since been received and communicated to the British company in question.

Mr. Henderson said he had also instructed the Ambassador, by a despatch, to present to the Polish Government the company's claim in respect of losses incurred by them. The future policy of the British company could only be decided by the company themselves.

THE ANGLO-SOVIET RAPPROCHEMENT.

DELAY IN PRESENTATION OF CREDENTIALS.

NO REASON YET GIVEN.

London, Dec. 16. The newly appointed Russian Ambassador in London, M. Sokolnikoff, was received at the Foreign Office to-day by Mr. Arthur Henderson, their conversation lasting for over an hour.

It is expected that M. Sokolnikoff will be received by H.R.H. the Prince of Wales in a few days for the presentation of his credentials from the Soviet Government.

The matter of the resumption of diplomatic relations with the Soviet was again raised in the House of Commons to-day when Mr. Arthur Henderson was questioned regarding an article in the Russian newspaper Pravda, forecasting increased agitation among British miners in preparation for the battle of April.

Mr. Henderson said the article was not such as to call for the notice of His Majesty's Government.

Asked the reason for the delay in the presentation of M. Sokolnikoff's credentials, Mr. Henderson said that was not a matter resting with a member of the Government. He added that the delay was not on M. Sokolnikoff's side or our side.

Replies to a suggestion that the delay was due to the fact that the Dominions had not sanctioned it, Mr. Henderson replied: "Oh no."—Reuter and British Wireless.

DISMAL PREDICTIONS IN LONDON.

CONSERVATIVES AND COAL MINES BILL.

ENTICING AMENDMENT.

London, Dec. 16.

"Without definite steps to improve the outlook of British industry, the current tendency to increase taxation at the behest of sentimental theorists would lead the country into bankruptcy."

This was the dismal prediction of Lord Melchett, formerly Sir Alfred Mond, leading Liberal, who has played a leading part in improving the relations between employers and employed, in the course of an address delivered at the London Chamber of Commerce to-day.

Mr. Churchill's Little Joke.

His views were endorsed by Mr. Winston Churchill, the former Chancellor of the Exchequer, who speaking simultaneously at a Unionist gathering in London, declared that far from curing unemployment, every step the Government had taken had tended to increase the number of able-bodied paupers.

The Labour Government, he declared, was seeking to transform the country into a vast soup kitchen.

Mr. Churchill told his audience that he intended increasingly to direct attention to the grave impending developments in Egypt which, ultimately, perhaps in the not distant future, would lead to a serious effusion of blood.

He added that the same proposals which were causing us out of Egypt are at work in India on a far larger scale.

"Dole" Bill Passed.

Meanwhile, in the House of Commons, the third reading of the Unemployment Insurance Bill has been passed, in spite of strong Conservative opposition.

The Tories moved an amendment for the rejection of the Bill on the ground that it threw too heavy a burden on the Exchequer and was calculated to result in a Budget deficit of at least £2,000,000.

The Conservative amendment was defeated by 273 votes to 199 votes before the third reading was passed.

Coal Bill Tussle.

The next severe tussle between the Government and the Opposition will commence to-morrow when the Government's Coal Mines Bill will be debated.

The debate will continue on Tuesday and it is expected that the Bill will receive a second reading.

A Liberal amendment protests against the failure of the Bill to hasten nationalisation of the coal industry, but welcomes the establishment of a National Wage Board.

Conservative Amendment.

The Conservative amendment, which has precedence, however, has been tabled in a form which is designed to give the Liberals a chance of joining the Conservatives in the division lobby.

It will be moved by Sir Phillip Cunliffe Lister, the former President of the Board of Trade, tomorrow. It does not state any reasons for rejection of the Bill, but merely moves "that the Bill be read a second time this day six months hence."

Bait to Liberals.

In this form, it is open for the Liberals to join the Conservatives, though hitherto it has been considered most probable that the Liberals will abstain from a vote in support of the Conservatives.—Reuter and British Wireless.

INVADE SETTLEMENT.

Shanghai, Dec. 17. The Municipal Police are understood to be keenly apprehensive, with very good reason, regarding the possible consequences of the action of the Garrison Commander of Greater Shanghai, in ordering the disbandment of a large number of troops.

These have been disbanded at Jessfield and paid off with a few dollars as compensation, and the police fear that they will embark on a career of crime when their resources are exhausted.

It is definitely known, as a matter of fact, that the disbanded soldiers belong to a mutinous regiment with a very bad record, and that the demobilisation is due to the determination of the Nanking leaders

THIRD ROUND OF F.A. CUP.

PREMIER CLUBS IN FOR FIRST TIME.

SECOND DIVISION ENTIRELY OUT OF LUCK.

BOLTON DRAWN AWAY.

London, Dec. 16. The draw for the Third Round Proper of the Football Association Cup Competition was made to-day, resulting as follows:

Scunthorpe or Rotherham v. Notts Forest. Charlton A. v. Q. P. Rangers. Chesterfield v. Middlesbrough. Wrexham v. West Brom. Birmingham v. Bolton Wanderers. Corinthians v. Millwall. Coventry v. Sunderland. Arsenal v. Chelsea. West Ham v. Notts County. Tottenham H. v. Manchester C. Wednesday v. Burnley. Derby County v. Bristol City. Walsall v. Swans. Fulham v. Carmarthen or Bourne mouth. Brighton v. Grimsby. Blackburn v. Northampton. Aston Villa v. Reading. Bradford C. v. Southampton. Bury v. Huddersfield. Leeds United v. Cry. Palace. Liverpool v. Cardiff. Blackpool v. Stockport. Portsmouth v. Preston N.E. Clapton O. v. Bristol Rov. Manchester U. v. Swindon T. Barnsley v. Bradford. Newcastle v. York City. Doncaster v. Stoke City. Sheffield U. v. Leicester C. Watford or Plymouth v. Hull City. Carlisle v. Everton. Oldham v. Wolves. Matches to be played on January 11th.—Reuter.

The Luck of the Draw. The luck of the draw has been absolutely against the Second Division. Of the twenty-two clubs coming into the competition for the first time, only seven have had the fortune to be drawn at home, these including the present league leaders, Blackpool and Oldham Athletic. Both Notts teams and both Bristol teams are among the visitors.

The First Division has had better luck. Thirteen clubs will play before their own supporters—both the Sheffield clubs being thus favoured, while four of the remainder are away to teams of the Third Division. The Wednesday are at home to Burnley, Sheffield United play Leicester City, and Birmingham meet the holders of the Cup, Bolton Wanderers. It seems probable that the Cup-holders will go out in the first round this season. The other finalists of last season, Portsmouth, are at home to Preston North End.

Earlier Round Survivors. Captains Le Brix and Rossi hoped off from the Le Bourget aerodrome at noon to-day for Benghazi, en route to Saigon, whither the airman Lassalle is also flying.—Hayas.

Very Châtillon, Dec. 16. A wireless message from Le Bourget and Rossi, who are flying to Saigon, states that they had passed over St. Raphael.

The Third Division (South) has six home and six away games. The Northern Section has five home and two away.

Two interesting London clashes are on the card. The Arsenal meet Chelsea, and Charlton Athletic are opposed to Queen's Park Rangers. Seven matches will be played in London altogether, including very interesting matches, Spurs and Manchester City and Corinthians v. Millwall.

All the Welsh clubs with the exception of Carlisle are called upon to travel, while Carlisle have to entertain their formidable neighbours of the First Division, Everton.

Local "Derbies" will be played at Bury, Blackpool and Barnsley.

League Football.

London, Dec. 16. At Sheffield today, in a postponed First Division match, the United defeated the Arsenal by four goals to one.—Reuter.

STRANGE STOPPAGE OF AIR LINE.

POLITICAL DIFFERENCES THOUGHT RESPONSIBLE.

Shanghai, Dec. 17. Considerable surprise was caused in Shanghai yesterday by the sudden and mysterious suspension of the new air mail service between Hankow and Shanghai.

The stoppage was certainly not due altogether to the weather, but arose, it is believed, through certain political difficulties, following the resignation of Mr. Sun Fo as head of the National Aviation Corporation.

The service was, however, resumed this morning and it is believed that an adjustment has been effected with the Ministry of Communications.—Our Own Correspondent.

BREWER CASE
BANK'S BOOKS.

THE LOAN QUESTION.

Mr. Hampden Ross, the accountant commissioned to investigate the books of the Instone Banking Corporation, concluded his testimony on the resumption of the Brewer case before Mr. A. W. G. H. Grantham at the Central Magistrate yesterday afternoon.

Mr. S. Hampden Ross, the liquidator, continued his evidence for the prosecution in the Instone Banking Corporation case, which was resumed before Mr. A. W. G. H. Grantham yesterday afternoon, when he stated that the Collateral Security Loans, the Mortgage and Long Term loans, Stocks, Shares, etc., and the uncalled capital, the total amount of which was $2,603,147.66., shown on the printed balance sheet as assets of the Corporation could not be recognised as assets, as they had never existed.

Replying to Mr. Somerset Fitzroy, the Public Prosecutor, the witness said that 90% of the $1,420,950 stated in the balance sheet to be uncalled capital, had never been allocated.

Mr. Fitzroy:—As an experienced auditor, would you have passed that balance sheet with the amount termed "uncalled capital" as an asset?—No, I would certainly not. It should never have been included?—No.

The statement that it was an asset is absolutely false?—Yes.

Mr. Ross added that in November, 1927, $963,000 was transferred from the Capital Account to the Allotment and Suspense Account, but in spite of this it was included in the Capital account. Certain application forms had been filled in by various persons on dates in July, August and September, 1927, for the total amount of $1,153,000 and in November, they were definitely regarded as doubtful and were transferred to the Allotment and Suspense account. The largest amount was a person named Kwang Ho-tin, who had $550,000 worth, and the books showed that certain of his shares were forfeited in April, 1928. Despite this fact, they were still included as an asset in the Share Capital account, whereas actually they were not asset. They never were an asset, and it must have been known by those concerned that no money was likely to be realised.

No Collateral Security.

Dealing with the Collateral Security Loans (short term and at call) item which was shown on the balance sheet at $349,630, Mr. Ross said that it was no collateral security at all. In fact he could not find any. In inspecting the books, he found several application forms and promissory notes amounting to $205,500, which, so far as he could see, had never been paid out. According to the books, these should have amounted to $761,000, which included $432,000 from Mrs. Brewer. He could, however, find no collateral security and it was an absolute false statement to say that there was any such security. As an auditor he would never have allowed such a thing to appear in a balance sheet. He would have asked them to put things right. He would have regarded them as unsecured loans, and insisted that they were put as such.

Mr. Fitzroy pointed out that it was stated the Company lent $761,000. How much money would the Company have up to the time these loans were made?

Mr. Ross replied that the bulk of the loans were made on June 10 and the last one on July 16. During the whole of that period the Company never had the cash to make the loans. The balance of cash in hand at the time was $9,330, and during June and July they received various amounts of cash to a rough total of $80,000, so that they never had the cash in hand to make the loans to the shareholders. It was a physical impossibility.

Not An Asset.

Turning to the Mortgage and Long Term Loans, which were stated to be $266,630, the witness said he could see no mortgage held by the bank, and if there were none, the statement made in the balance sheet was absolutely false. There was an amount shown as owing from the Hongkong branch, but it was not a mortgage loan, because it did not exist. It was a cross-entry with the Hongkong branch. The $260,000 appeared in the Head Office books and as a cross-entry item in the Hongkong books. That could be no means an asset, because it never existed.

The witness was then taken to the Stocks, Shares and other Investments item, which was marked at $484,831.80, which he said was made up by 415 shares of $1,000 shares of the Instone Banking Corporation and the purchase price of the goodwill in a bond selling, which amounted to $69,793.60.

Mr. Fitzroy:—Can "good-will" be described as stocks, shares and investments?—No. It fails to disclose all material information and was quite wrong to appear there. Questioned with regard to the item showing a block of 4,800 shares originally allotted to Mrs. Brewer and subsequently shown in the books as having been acquired by the Instone Trading Company, witness said that he could not find any information in the books as to the value of these shares. They would be worth nothing assuming that the only shares possessed by the Trading Company were the shares of the Instone Banking Corporation. The Balance Sheet shows that the Instone Banking Corporation had no assets at all. When I said no assets, I should have said that the assets of the Instone Banking Corporation were such that they were just able to pay their liabilities."

Mr. Fitzroy: What do you mean by "paying their liabilities"?—Their assets were not more than sufficient to pay their liabilities.

Continuing, witness said that Loans, Mortgages and Investments as shown on the Balance Sheet were obviously worth practically nothing, as the Directors must have known. Their bank premises in Hongkong were mortgaged.

It followed that with the shares of the Instone Banking Corporation as its only asset, the Instone Trading Company was worth nothing.

Witness went on to say that a further examination of the books showed that the 4,800 shares were originally allotted to Mrs. Brewer on June 21, 1927. Payment of $48,000 was purported to have been made, but this was only a cross-entry against her bond-holding goodwill, refunded to the Bank by Mrs. Brewer. On June 28, Mrs. Brewer had a "loan" of $432,000 and that evened up the value of the shares allotted to her and showed them to have been fully paid up. Subsequently the shares were transferred to the Instone Trading Company for $415,000.

Witness was questioned next with regard to the item Customers Deposits, and he said that item was a false one, being overrated to the extent of $260,000 in the Statutory Report.

Mr. Ross Cross-examined.

Mr. E. Davidson then rose to cross-examine for the defence. "Mr. Ross," he said, "I am not going to quarrel with you on the subject of accounts. I am prepared to accept your views as to the proper way of accounting. You appreciate that in dealing with this report we are not considering it is a correct account from the accountant's viewpoint. The question is whether it was a perjured report with which Mr. Brewer is charged. You are, I understand, the principal witness for the prosecution? You are called to bear the main burden of proof of these charges? In your own point of view, where a Company's shares are allotted, the Company in practice don't receive any cash at all, do they? I am taking the literal meaning of "cash." In effect, cash is never used, in the strict sense of the term, and what is done in practice is that a cheque is paid by the shareholder and that goes into the Company's banking account?"

Witness:—Yes.

It is therefore a matter of opinion as to what constitutes payment of cash. That must be so, isn't it?—Yes.

It is not a question here whether the Instone Bank is properly conducted, or whether it is a sound, substantial concern. The question is whether they had adopted, rightly or wrongly, this particular method of inviting shareholders:

A call was made by the Bank which was not paid, except in the books. Money was lent to the shareholders, and in exchange for one of these documents. I am suggesting the actual process was this. The shareholder goes to the Bank and says: "I want to pay so much in advance of call, in advance of shares. The Company says "We don't want it now, but we will take it and lend it back." That, I put to you, was the transaction as shown in the books? No. I cannot agree that they paid money and were lent it back.

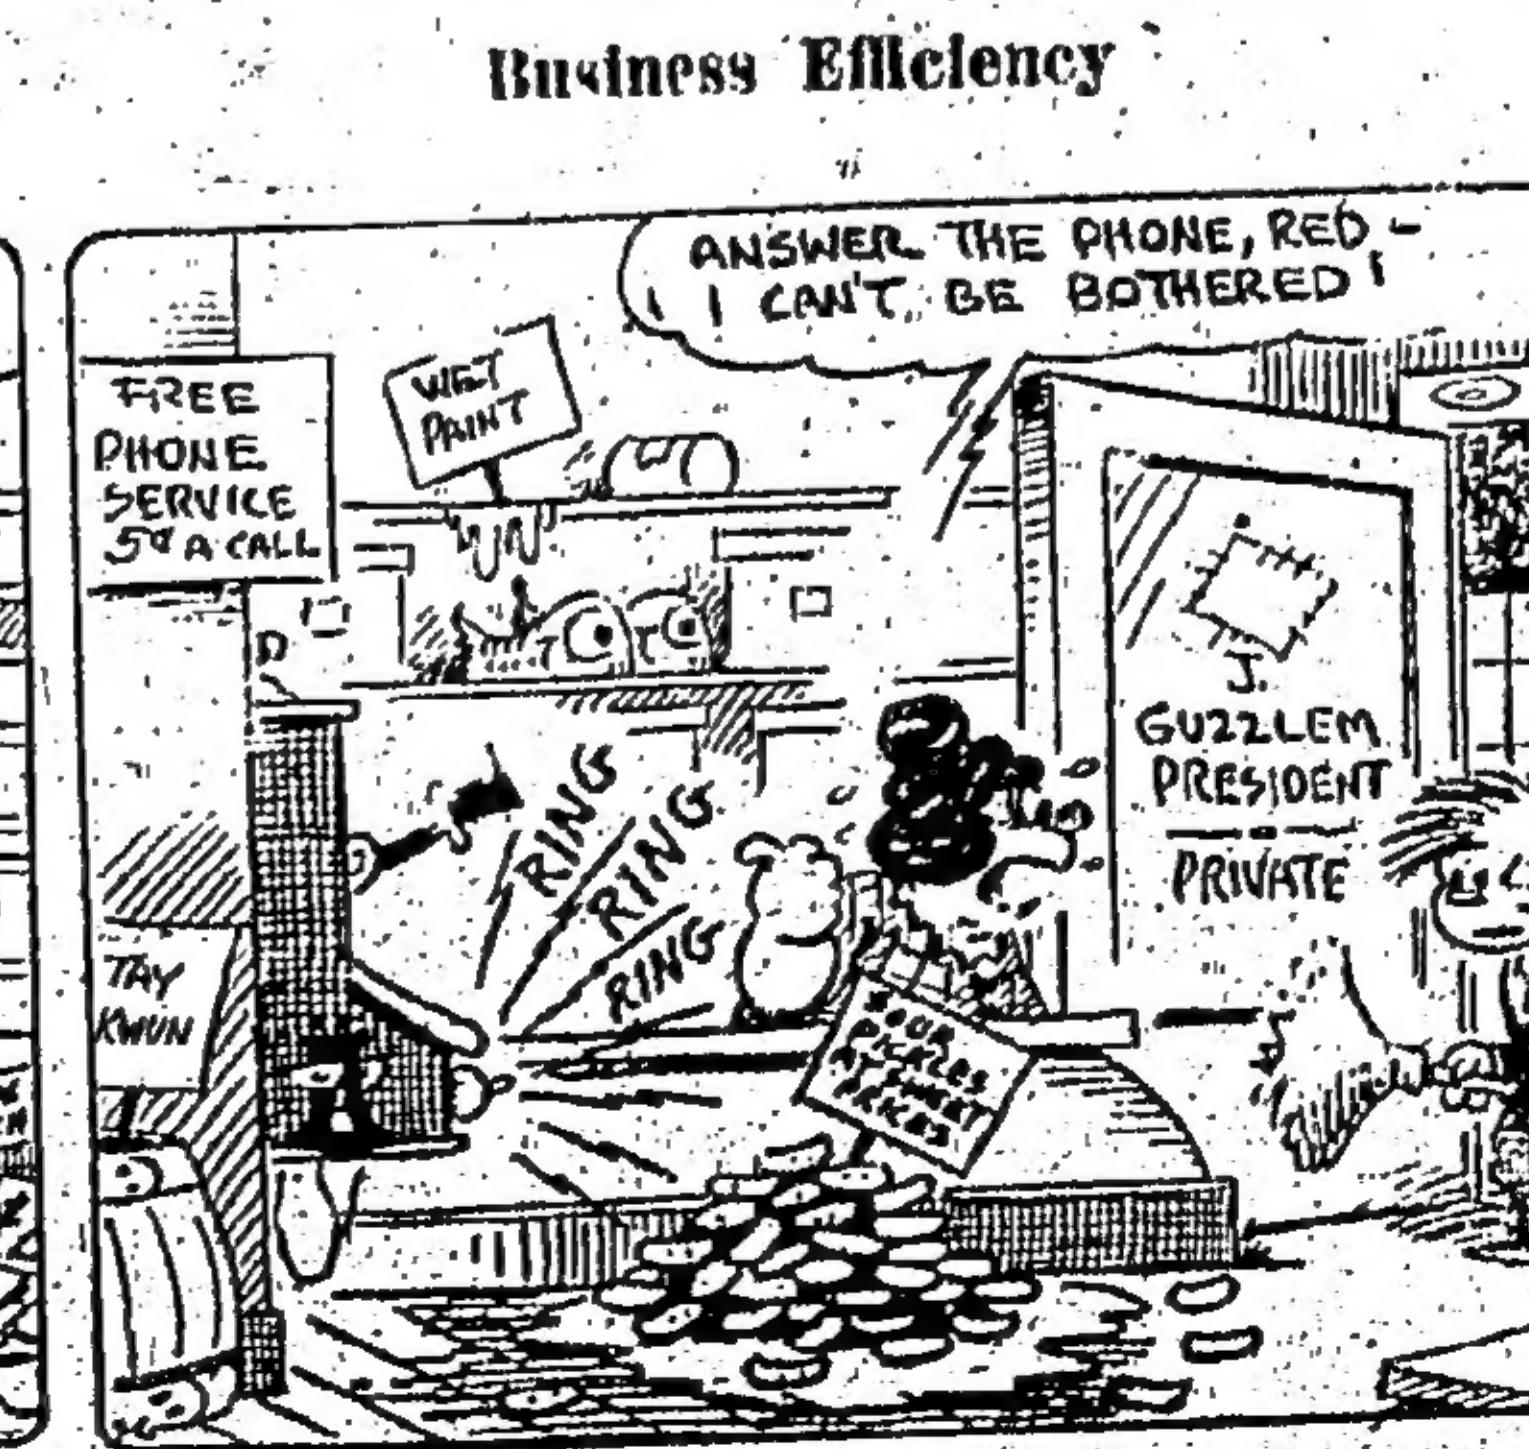

I am not asking you to say that I ask you to say that the matter was treated in the books as if that had been done. That was done, was it not?—Yes, that is the idea.

And the result was, that instead of having a right to make a call on the shares, on their shareholders, the Bank got a definite

CHRISTIAN EDUCATION.

Reference to the impending departure of H.E. the Governor was made at the official opening of the new Catholic University Hostel, Ricci Hall, yesterday afternoon by Professor C. A. Middleton Smith, who said that in years to come he hoped to see a "Clementi Hall" stand within the University domains.

The gathering at the hostel was a most distinguished one and included, in addition to His Excellency, the Hon. Mr. W. T. Southorn, C.M.G., Hon. Mr. W. E. L. Shenton, Hon. Mr. J. P. Braga, Bishop Valtorta, the Bishop of Victoria, Hon. Dr. S. W. Tso, C.B.E., Hon. Mr. H. T. Croay, C.B.E., and many members of the clergy and laity of all denominations. Letters of regret at their inability to be present were received from Lady Clementi and from the Hon. Dr. R. H. Kotewall, C.M.G.

Following the arrival of H.E. the Governor, and the opening of the hostel, the gathering adjourned to the rear of the building where, on a fine terrace commanding a magnificent view across the harbour, the speeches were made.

Welcoming H.E., Father G. Byrne, S.J. said:—

Your Excellency, ladies and gentlemen: We have assisted at a ceremony which is simple in its accomplishment but profound in its implications. Opening a door is so simple an act that the burglar can dispense with your keys; yet opening a door is so full of meaning that the phrase has become one of the rich metaphors of our language. Our memories of the past, our joys, our hopes, our aspirations, all crowd through the open door of our minds, voluntarily or involuntarily admitted. Every one realises that no quest is so human as the quest of the golden key which unlocks the door of the temple of knowledge. You can see, then, how fitting is the ceremony, just performed by His Excellency, of opening the door of a new University Hostel, destined for students of Universal Knowledge.

It seems to me that there is an especial appropriateness in the function for His Excellency, at the present moment. To the regret of all, he and Lady Clementi are about to leave us. In the mind of the Home Government, Singapore is a step higher in the administrative ladder, but to us, who know the East, it is absurd to say that a Governor, in the low-lying Straits, could climb higher than Mountabone Lodge, on the Peak. Certain it is that His Excellency will find it difficult to reach a higher point in the esteem of his new friends than he has reached in the good-will of all, Hongkong.

He has devoted himself, untiringly to every phase of local development, and I am sure that he will not contradict me if I say that the growth of the University has had a very warm corner in his heart, and that no one has worked more actively than he to help the University to pass the stage of what Mr. Hornell called "its growing pains." From the first he has taken a keen interest in the erection of Ricci Hall. It is an addition to the University; and may we flatter ourselves that, at least in its ideals, it is an addition that would appeal to his scholarship?

History of Ricci.

The name chosen for the Hall—Ricci Hall—suggest that those responsible for its direction wish to borrow a leaf from His Excellency's own book of scholarship, by trying to make a happy blend of Western and Eastern scholarship. Long before Ricci, Western missionaries, Western traders, Western explorers had found their way to the East, but Matteo Ricci (pronounced Ritchie) was the first to establish himself at the court of Peking, not only as a recognised scientist, but as a master in science who opened up new fields of knowledge to the scholars of the East. After working for some years in Canton, Shiu Hing and other parts of South China, Father Ricci finally got permission to settle in Peking on January 24, 1601. At Peking he remained until his death on May 11, 1610. He was known to the citizens as Priest, Sinologue and Scientist and to quote the words of the Encyclopaedia Britannica: "Probably no European name of past centuries is so well known as that of Li-ma-teu, the form in which the name of Ricci was adapted to Chinese usage. The works which he composed in Chinese are numerous . . . They are said to display an aptitude for clothing ideas in a Chinese dress very rare and remarkable in a foreigner."

It is natural that those who belong to the Jesuit Order of which Fr. Ricci was a member should seek to perpetuate his memory by some suitable memorial in the East. It is a happy coincidence that the first warden of the Hall—Fr. MacDonald—should have commenced his connexion with the East in Shiu Hing and Canton, as did Ricci. Fr. MacDonald has just come to us from Canton where, last year, he taught mathematics in Cantonese. Though Fr. MacDonald would be the first to deny any claim to a scholarship such as Ricci's, I am quite safe in saying that in devotion to the study of the language, he is one with his illustrious brother, and if he and those associated with him in the work were not animated by the ideals of Ricci, this Hall would have remained unbuilt.

Scope of University.

If you ask what more precisely these ideals are, I would say that they are happily summed up in the title given to Ricci "Priest, Sinologue, Scientist." These ideals are developed by Cardinal Newman in his, idea of a University. He claims as the scope of a University the culture of universal knowledge, and shows that this aim cannot be attained unless the mind sweeps the Heavens as well as the earth. We have been selecting Christmas cards these days, and the traditions of Christmas must bring home to us the impossibility of understanding the thought of a Dante, a Shakespeare, a Milton without some of the theology of the Incarnation. Nor can we divorce the art of Michelangelo, of Raphael, of Murillo from the same theology.

For this reason, amongst others, we can see the need of Hostels which, within a University, afford such students, as freely desire it, the opportunity of pursuing, pari passu with their secular studies, the culture which, to those who believe in religion at all, must dominate all other cultures—the religious development of their souls. In the biochemical laboratory an excellent menu card of carbohydrates and proteins suitably blended for our dinner may be drawn up, but we are more interested in the social side of our parties than even in vitamins, and the best equipped laboratory does not analyse table talk. A full University course should prepare the student to be something more than a doctor or an engineer or a lawyer; it should prepare him to be a man, to play to the full his role of duty in life:

"So high is grandeur to our dust,
So near is God to man,
When Duty whispers low—Thou must."

The youth replies—I can!"

The social life of a University Hall where students of so many different races, creeds and varied cultures meet should be an invaluable training ground. The permanent staff of the Hall will consist of the Warden with two or three others, all University Graduates of different faculties: thus, at present, literature, medicine and engineering are represented. As in the residential Halls of Oxford and Cambridge private assistance is given to such students as desire it, so it will be the aim of the Fathers to help those who may need help in their studies.

Useful Library.

Amongst other things you will notice that we are endeavouring to build up a useful library for the benefit of the students. We shall try to make this library more serviceable by lectures on such subjects as the use of libraries, the choice of books, the most profitable way to read, &c. Lord Bacon has truly said that "reading maketh full man" but he did not add that indiscriminate reading may produce a mental indigention more dangerous than the bodily malady and more difficult to cure.

On the open book, above the hall door, you have noticed a phrase from the Analects of Confucius, which we might render freely into English: "In your quest of scholarship follow the man of high ideals, not the man of low ideals." We shall be happy if the student of Ricci Hall has this motto "Excellor" as his watchword. We hope, certainly, that the immediate result of his efforts will be success in the examination hall. But we hope still more that, even if he were to fail in the list of academic honours, he will not fail in the more important roll call of being a man—every inch a man: "tis not in mortals to command success, but I've done better, I've deserved it."

On behalf of the staff of Ricci Hall, I beg to thank very sincerely H.E. Sir Cecil Clementi for his presence to-day and his genuine interest in the Hall; Bishop Valtorta for unsparing encouragement; Professor Middleton Smith, the senior Dean of the University staff for his presence on the platform to welcome us into the University circle. I might add that the acquisition of the beautiful site is due not only to his engineering in-

Thanks to Builders.

The architects, Measars, Little, Adams and Wood, the contractors, Measars, Lam Woo, Mr. Vanniene, who did the chapel, the electricians, Measars, Jack, Measars, Reiss Massy for the heating, Leo Yu Kee for the range will all be rewarded by your approbation, when you have examined their work. Nor will you deny it to Measars, Chung & Chung for the room furniture, nor to Mr. Chanatong for the design of the library premises.

We are indebted to the Club Lusitano for allowing us one of their billiard tables at a more than reasonable cost.

Besides all these, I should mention a small list of benefactors, who have contributed towards the cost of furnishing the Hostel. As I hope that the list will be increased, I am withholding publication for the moment. It is customary to make an appeal for institutions such as this. If I imitate the general custom, I know that I can call upon your goodness which has grown by frequent giving, and at the same time I can appeal to your civic sense. St. Paul boasted that he "was citizen of no mean city." A Hongkonger can surely indulge in the boast, to say nothing of the resident who points to the placard of Greater Kowloon. Now you are convinced that a University and all the machinery that goes to work it are not a luxury but a necessity, to the national life. You leave mansions behind you, they will crumble and be replaced; you leave thoughts—ideals, inspirations—they will germinate for good or ill; you help to educate those who will take your place, what have you done?

"What is white?"

The soul of the sage, faithful.

The trust of Age,

The infant's untaught wit,

What more white?

The Voice of Youth

Singing before her throne."

Loss of H.E.

Professor Middleton Smith said that of all the friends the University had had in its existence, H. E. Sir Cecil Clementi would rank as one of the greatest. He had always shown a great interest in the University, and it was with dismay that all connected with the institution heard of his impending departure.

Ricci Hall was fortunate in having had Sir Cecil to open its portals and to bear a stone tablet to that effect at its entrance. In years to come he hoped that the University would have a "Clementi Hall" to commemorate the work Sir Cecil had always so gladly performed for the institution.

The University had had many difficulties in its career, he continued, but it was most happy never to have misfortunes resulting from divergence of religious views. He pointed out that at one time the University of London had suffered from this complaint. The Duke of Wellington, who had very fixed views on religious matters, was determined to enforce them upon the colleges in the same way that he had conquered his enemies on the field of battle. Finally, the authorities said that if the University controllers could not agree, they would keep only one body within its walls, and that the most unpopular one, the examiners. This was done and for many years the University remained in this condition. In 1900, however, the people became more sensible and to-day the University had a different standard of affairs that made for higher standards socially, and intellectually.

Bishop's Address.

His Lordship Bishop Valorta said that it was indeed a great pleasure to see the realization of a long cherished dream in having a Catholic Hostel at the University of Hongkong. The invitation from the University authorities long ago to start a Catholic Hostel had been eagerly accepted. The Catholic Church respected freely all religious liberty and actually forbade all forms of religious coercion. Yet it wished Christian principles and ideals to always accompany step by step, even up to the University, the education of youth. The short 22 years he had passed in China had more than convinced him of the absolute necessity of Christian principles as a basis for education. He had seen a feverish activity for education in China, yet he had seen once more how true it was that the school when it ceased to be a temple becomes a den.

To the instruction of the mind must be added the building of the character—to the scientist add the man. These reasons had moved the Catholic Mission to start a hostel for the University students. However, the Mission had always had troubles of one kind or another, so that it could not succeed until to-day. But where there was a will there was a way. The building, the equipment, and above all the fine staff of the hall, made the

Backward Babies
Begin To Thrive When Baby's Own Tablets Are Used.

Derangement of the digestive organs is responsible for most of the ailments which trouble infants and keep them backward in development. Baby's Own Tablets gently stimulate the stomach and bowels, restoring them to normal action, and this is all that is necessary in most cases to set the little sufferer safely on the road to happy, rosy health.

"Until I began using Baby's Own Tablets my baby was always constipated and was restless and sleepless," writes Mrs. Ford, of 201 Colborne St., London, Ontario. "I tried several medicines but they did not help her. Since using the Tablets her bowels have been quite regular and she sleeps well. My eldest child had a poor appetite but since having given her the Tablets her appetite has improved and she has grown stronger. I would not be without the Tablets for anything."

Baby's Own Tablets are specially designed to correct infantile indigestion, constipation, colic, to allay teething pains, cool feverishness, check diarrhoea, relieve croup and colds, expel worms. Of chemists everywhere, post free, 60 cents per vial, from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 60, Kiangse Road, Shanghai.

CINEMA NOTES.

"THE BROADWAY MELODY" FOR THURSDAY.

As its first all-talking film, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer took a specially written story with a theatrical Broadway background by Edmund Goulding, gave it to Harry Beaumont to direct with a cast headed by Charles King, Anita Page and Bessie Love, got James Gleason, author of "I'm Not So Bad" and "The Shannon of Broadway" and Norman Houston to write the sophisticated dialogue, secured lyrics by Arthur Freed and music by Nacio Herb Brown, dashed in a bit of technicolour in order not to lose the beauty of sets and costumes, and called the result "The Broadway Melody."

This picture, which enthusiastic advance information insists is easy on the eye and not at all hard on the ear, will be presented for the first time in Hongkong at the Queen's Theatre on Thursday, guaranteeing some of the greatest screen entertainment seen here.

If any credence is to be given to the assertions of those who are responsible for this particular film and those who witnessed its sensational debut at the Astor Theatre in New York City, where it carried the motion picture critics and the huge first-night audience by storm, it deserves special attention as the most brilliant all-talking, all-singing, all-dancing motion picture yet screened.

Of course the proof from an individual point of view is how one likes the picture when one sees and hears it from the box-office point of view, how many individuals will like it so well or so little that they can or cannot, as the case may be, stay away from it. So far, "The Broadway Melody" audiences have been among the greatest, numerically speaking, of any in the history of the screen.

Another item, speaking well for "The Broadway Melody" is the fact that Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer decided that it was the best vehicle obtainable for breaking the ice with an all-talker, largely because there is so much music in it. They have "The Trial of Mary Dugan" and other all-talking pictures on the way, but elected to open the campaign with a singing and dancing entertainment.

In order to let the music into the situations as naturally as possible, the author wrote of two sisters who came to New York to go on the stage, back and front. Opportunities that this sort of theme gives for songs are obvious. "The Broadway Melody" has the enchanting air of a musical comedy and all the drama of a serious story. A full musical comedy chorus is used and the music includes "The Broadway Melody," "You Were Meant for Me," and "Love Boat."

The cast is a notable one, including beside the three principals, Ned Prouty, Kenneth Thomson, Edward Dillon, Mary Moran, Eddie Kane, J. Emmett Beck, Marshall Ruth and Drew Demarest.

Miracle Man at Majestic.

If the advance reports that herald the visit of Levante the well known illusionist, who will appear at the Majestic Theatre, Kowloon to-morrow can be relied on, it would not be asking too much to have him titled "The Miracle Man." Levante's one object in life appears to be to cause pretty ladies to vanish in mid-air, or to create as much laughter as possible whilst indulging in magical effects that are droll to the extreme. With a small boy, a hat and some eggs he succeeds in convulsing his audience with laughter, whilst the next minute he has apparently caused a lady to suffer torture whilst penetrating her with swords. Most of his illusions are from Maskelyne; that in itself brands him a star performer.

Miss Gladys Cole, who accompanies Levante, plays delightful music on a huge accordion. Her first programme will include "Humoresque" and several numbers from The "Follies of 1929."

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS

CLASH AT MINE.

POLICE USE FIREARMS IN AUSTRALIA.

Sydney, Dec. 16. Four thousand miners at a Rothbury colliery viciously attacked the police early this morning. The police used revolvers and three miners were wounded.

Several police were injured as the result of heavy stone-throwing.

Attack Resumed.

Later.

Wild scenes followed the shooting, groups of miners making repeated and desperate attacks on the Police. The affray lasted for twenty minutes and broke out again later in the morning when the miners tried to force their way in to the colliery. A legislator named Baddeley was injured in a melee while attempting to pacify the miners.—Reuters.

Attempts at Settlement.

Sydney, Dec. 16.

One miner was killed and nine were wounded, while forty-five suffered minor injuries, and six police were injured, in the disturbance at Rothbury mine.

Apparently the miners intended to occupy the mine, but had not expected such resolute resistance.

Mr. Chaffey, the Minister for Mines, says there is no question but that law and order will be maintained. Large police reinforcements have gone to the mine from the Sydney and Newcastle districts.

The Federal Cabinet has resolved immediately to intervene in the dispute and the Commonwealth Arbitration Court has summoned the parties to an urgent, compulsory conference in Sydney at noon-to-morrow.

Mr. Scullin has telegraphed to the miners' leaders strongly requesting the miners to withdraw from the vicinity of the mine and avoid further clashes.

The leaders have replied that they will do everything possible to comply with the request.

Mr. Scullin has also requested Mr. Bavin, Premier of New South Wales, to suspend the measures for opening the mine, but the New South Wales Cabinet has decided not to alter its plan to open the mine on Thursday, and will not participate in the conference to-morrow.—Reuters.

AMERICAN PRODUCTS.

KEEN COMPETITION WITH INDIA EXPECTED.

Bombay, Dec. 16. At the opening of the annual general meeting of the Associated Chamber of Commerce of India and Ceylon, the Governor of Bombay, Sir Frederick Sykes, was of opinion that the United States would be compelled to resort to wholesale dumping of produce wherever possible in order to dispose of its immense production, for which the demand had suddenly declined owing to the stock market collapse; thus India would be brought increasingly into direct competition with American industry, and the demand for Indian products must inevitably to some extent slacken and prices fall.—Reuters.

Miracle Man at Majestic.

If the advance reports that herald the visit of Levante the well known illusionist, who will appear at the Majestic Theatre, Kowloon to-morrow can be relied on, it would not be asking too much to have him titled "The Miracle Man." Levante's one object in life appears to be to cause pretty ladies to vanish in mid-air, or to create as much laughter as possible whilst indulging in magical effects that are droll to the extreme. AMERICAN PROGRESS.

REPORTS STRESS THE GROWTH OF INDUSTRY.

Sydney, Dec. 16. The unbroken, steady expansion of business in the past eight years, notwithstanding a few minor short-lived recessions, is stressed in Mr. Lamont's annual message to Congress, showing that the expansion of production of commodities, transport and other services had in nowise diminished in the year ending June 30. The annual report of the Labour Secretary, Mr. Davis, suggests that the air patrol curb immigration, smuggling and other border law breakers. He asserts the latter are already using airships, while the enforcement of the law can only be accomplished by better weapons than those used by the law breakers.

Mr. Davis advocates a policy of selective immigration to ensure admittance of the best qualified Europeans. Among two million candidates for places, the total quotas are 150,000.—Reuters.

American Incomes.

New York, Dec. 16.

The income of the people in the United States has increased by 23,470 million dollars in the last decade, and by almost sixty billion dollars in the last twenty years, according to figures compiled by the National Bureau of Economic Research.

It is also estimated that the average wage earner received 1,205 dollars in 1928, compared with 976 in 1909.—Reuters.

LEAGUE PROGRAMME.

BUSY SESSION FORESHADOWED FOR NEXT MONTH.

London, Dec. 16.

There are 25 subjects on the agenda of the 58th session of the League of Nations Council, which will open at Geneva on January 13.

The Polish Foreign Minister, M. Zaleski, will preside on this occasion. The business will include the selection of a committee to consider an amendment of the League Covenant in order to bring it into accord with the Paris Peace Pact, the appointment of a further committee to examine the causes of delay in ratification of the League conventions, and the adoption of procedure for a study of the Finnish proposal that the Permanent Court of Justice should have jurisdiction as a court of appeal in view of the arbitral tribunals established by States.

The business also includes economic and social matters, and several questions in relation to mandates, including a proposal for a special sitting in the spring of the Mandates Committee to discuss the Palestine situation, and the appointment of a special commission suggested by the British Government to settle the claims of the Moslems and the Jews to the Walling Wall in Jerusalem.—British Wireless.

TUESDAY DEC. 17, 1929.

THOSE SHANGHAI
CABARETS.

It would seem that Shanghai's cafe managers are up in arms against the decision of the Municipal Council that as from February 1st next all cabarets, bars, hotels, etc., within the International Settlement must close their doors not later than 2 a.m. They contend that it is only after that hour that their businesses really begin to pay, and assert that the enforcement of the new rule will mean that they will have to shut down altogether. There seems little likelihood of the regulation meeting with objection from any but those who run these all-night cabarets, as the hours permitted are quite adequate for hotel and ordinary establishments of that kind; indeed, the latitude given is far greater than that enjoyed in Hongkong, where the sale of intoxicants is prohibited after midnight, except by permit on special occasions.

Here in Hongkong we have been spared the doubtful pleasures associated with restaurants which engage professional dancing girls for the purpose of providing cabaret entertainments, the authorities (quite rightly, in our opinion) setting their faces against the opening up of establishments of this type. From the Shanghai standpoint, life here may, in consequence, be much "slower," but that the gain is to the community in general there can be no question. We are told that the psychology of the Shanghai cabaret frequenter is such that he will not go out for one or two hours' entertainment in the evening, preferring to make his nocturnal jaunt an all-night one. Thus it happens that many of these cafes run until six or seven o'clock in the morning. Our reaction to these things is that they are nothing about which to boast; quite the reverse, in fact. We know all too well the type of Shanghai-lander who likes to create the impression amongst strangers that Shanghai is a "wicked" place; not that he would really like it to be, but that he thinks it "smart" to boast of how much more colourful and Bohemian the life of the Northern settlement is, than, for example, the humdrum existence with which the Hongkong resident has to put up. Whilst we would not for a moment suggest that these moderns are truly representative of the community, they are performing, perhaps unwittingly, a disservice to Shanghai when they talk thus. It is because of the prattlings of the "fast set" and the springing up of establishments which set themselves out to cater to their tastes that Shanghai has in some quarters gained a rather unsavoury reputation. In taking the step upon which it has decided, therefore, the Municipal Council is doing something to remove the causes for reproach. No one who is jealous for the future of Shanghai will quarrel with the decision. It is high time, indeed, that some such step were taken.

We remarked, earlier, in this column, that the action taken by the Municipality will be for the good of the community. A moment's reflection will establish the point. Apart from the tremendous amount of money which must be wasted in these cabarets, there is the economic aspect of the question so far as it affects the business life of the Settlement. So long as these cafes are permitted to remain open all night, so long will they attract young men who ought to be in their beds. It stands to reason that no office assistant or shop employee who makes a practice of "going the rounds" can be fit for business next day: the loss in efficiency must be considerable. There are other considerations, also, which need not be specified to be realised. Here in Hongkong we may be a little more straight-laced and "ultra-British" than many of the people of Shanghai, but we have at any rate the comforting assurance that if we err at all, it is on the side of moderation.

On admission of a charge of causing an obstruction by playing football in Nga Tsui Wai Road, Kowloon City, a Chinese, who appeared before Mr. T. S. Whyte Smith at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning, on a charge of cruelty to two chickens and a goose by carrying them suspended by the wings, was fined $5.

The body has been removed to the public mortuary of a couple, aged 46 years, who was found hanging by the neck from the verandah at 13, Water Street, West Point. The police are satisfied that it is a case of suicide.

Charged with returning from banishment before the expiration of his term of ten years dating from February 28, 1920, a Chinese, who appeared before Mr. T. S. Whyte Smith at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning, stated that he had miscalculated the time. He had made a mistake between the Western and Eastern calendars. His Worship sentenced the defendant to four months' hard labour.

The large audience which gathered at the Theatre Royal last night for the second performance by the Philharmonic Society of "The Geisha" was delighted with the excellence of the production. Those taking part were even better than on the opening night, and the play went with a fine swing from start to finish. Another big house is expected tonight, and those who have not already booked for the remaining shows should do so without delay.

A Japanese named F. H. Takehoto appeared before Mr. T. W. H. Defendant admitted the offence and was fined $5. on five days. The mistress of a passenger boat, charged with carrying three passengers in excess of the number allowed by her licence, was fined $3—$1 a passenger—with the alternative of three days' hard labour.

THE BOOKSHELF.

A NEW INTERPRETER OF CHINA.

Alice Tisdale Hobart has been described as "the new interpreter of China." Her latest book, "Pidgeon Cargo," published by The Century Company, New York (G. $2.50), provides full justification for the description of her work.

Mr. Lancelyn Giles, of the British consular service, in commenting on Mrs. Hobart's writings, remarks:

"Too often have we been afflicted with romances about China which have only served first for derisive laughter and then for sheer boredom, as one wildly impossible situation succeeds another, the authors apparently never having seen China or met any Chinese and drawing their ideas of China and the Chinese from some common stock of ridiculous absurdities. It is only those who spend twenty or more of the best years of their lives in the smaller treaty ports who know how to depict, as Alice Tisdale Hobart does, the life of the interior."

"Pidgeon Cargo," then, comes from the pen of one who knows of what she writes. It is a tale of pioneering on the Yangtze, of the life-battle between a man and a river, of the never-ending struggle of an American shipper and his son with the giant stream that plays so big a part in China's commerce. The dramatic sweep of the novel, with its stirring incidents of shipwrecks, pirate fights, loyalties, treacheries, escapes and rescues, flows impressively upon a background of the surging river of Chinese humanity, the myriad, common millions of China, each counting for less than one drop of the Yangtze's yellow flood—ground down, betrayed, starved, but constantly renewed, patient and indestructible.

This book is much more than a novel; it is a study of China and the Chinese, written by one who knows the Oriental mentality through and through. It is obviously based on fact, for many of the incidents treated and the personalities involved are historically recognisable. Not only will the tale grip the reader as he turns its pages, but he will gain a new insight into things Chinese. Add to these considerations the further fact that Mrs. Hobart writes with marked literary ability, and it will be realised that in "Pidgeon Cargo" we have a book of unusual merit.

We thoroughly commend it, and would add that no-one who lives in the East should fail to find a place for it on his or her bookshelf.

The Game of Wei-chi.

Longmans, Green and Co., Ltd., have just published the only book in the English language on the Chinese game of Wei-chi, which is traditionally supposed to have been invented about 2360 B.C. and was mentioned by Confucius in 600 B.C.

We are told that it is quite possible that the game will be the rage this winter amongst Westerners, and for that reason the appearance of this little volume is most timely.

The book, which sells at 3s. 6d., is the joint work of Count Daniele Peccori, former Commissioner of Customs in China, and Tong Shu, of the Chinese diplomatic service.

It has a foreword by Professor H.A. Giles, who was the pioneer many years ago of introducing the game to England; he says to play it as an amusement is an easy task, but to become a master is an affair of years.

Wei-chi is played on a square map on which are drawn at equal distances nineteen lines crossing at right angles nineteen other lines, thus forming 361 intersections. The "men" or "pieces" used in the game are placed on these intersections, and not within the squares. The game represents a struggle for territory by opposing forces, and it may therefore be called a war game.

In addition to a historical sketch, full details are given of how to play the game, and by study of the many analysed games the reader can rapidly improve his skill.

Tales from Flanders.

"Plain Tales from Flanders," by the Rev. P. B. Clayton, M.C., the founder-patre of Toe H., is amongst the latest of Messrs. Longman, Green and Company's publications. It sells at 3s. 6d.

Those who know the author's war service and post-war activities need no assurance that this book is good. It contains a selection of stories—a bundle of a man's memories, some sacred, some profane, drawn from the private annals of Talbot House in Poperinge and Ypres; a battered house and still more battered cellar; whence all Toe H. throughout the world today took its beginning.

The stories are all pregnant with life and colour, and it is hoped that this book will become as precious to the members of Toe H. as the first "Tales of Talbot," now in its eighth edition, and that many others will be glad of its true witness.

Three years passed, but no tall fair-haired husband returned to see Madame Butterly and his little son.

Instead, there came a white woman, Pinkerton's legal wife, to beg for the child.

Disowned by parents and husband, Butterly embraced her little Mousko-San, and in an agony of love and despair stabbed herself, just as her repentent lover entered the room and sank upon his knees beside her.

Poor victim of man's selfish, thoughtless passion, this little flower of the East was early bruised and broken.

Puccini's opera which bears her name though one of the addrest is one of the best loved.

The Very Idea!

Two readers have written to "The Daily Mail" about their children who were born on the eleventh hour of the eleventh day of the eleventh month.

One of them is Jean Everett, the daughter of an ex-soldier who went through the war with the 1st Royal Scots. She was five years old last Armistice Day, and was born during the two minutes' silence.

Jean has eleven toes, six on her left foot and five on her right. This, however, writes her father, has no effect on her walking. She was born at Ardmadale, West Lothian, but is now living at Battle, Sussex.

Another "Armistice baby" is Victor Thomas Abbott, who was eleven on this year. He lives at Coad's Green, near Launceston, Cornwall.

The other night I went to an "at-home" at an Indian students' hostel (writes a correspondent to a Home paper) and was surprised to see one student in his dressing-gown and slippers.

Wondering why he had presented himself in such an unusual manner, I went up and asked him the reason. He looked astonished at the question, and replied: "But this is an 'at home,' and so why should we put on coat, collar, and other things which we wear when we go out?"

The report that a home is respectable does not exclude the possibility of its being one in which the environment is unsympathetic or even impossible for a child of a special temperament.—Dr. W. A. Potts.

All artists who make concessions to other people's wishes, tastes, or views, cease to be artists.—Mr. C. R. W. Nevinson.

Millionaires are over-respected in this world.—Mr. Walter Runciman.

Little Jones drove up to a race meeting in a particularly dilapidated car. As soon as he pulled up the attendant in charge of the car-park came up to collect the fee.

"Ten shillings, sir," he said.

"What?" Jones said, "ten shillings? What's that for?"

"Why—your car, sir," the man replied.

Jones looked from his vehicle to the man and back again.

"Right!" he decided, after a pause. "It's yours—give me the ten bob!"

WHO WAS.

MADAM BUTTERLY?

Far-away Nagasaki was the scene of Madame Butterfly's tragic love and death. She was only fifteen—the age of playthings and sweetmeats—when her almond eyes and pretty fluttering ways snared the passing fancy of Lt. Pinkerton, an officer in the American Navy.

They were married in Japanese fashion. Butterfly understood little of the SMUGGLED WINES DISCOVERED.REGULAR TRAFFIC FROM TIENSIN.*DUMPED IN HARBOUR.

That the defendants, a cook and storekeeper of the s.s. Kwei Chow, were regular smugglers of dutiable wines which were purchased in Tientsin, was the statement made by Detective Sergeant Humphreys before Mr. T. S. Whyte Smith at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning when they appeared on remand on charges of being in possession of dutiable Chinese wine.

The cook, whose case was taken first, was accused of having had 18 bottles in his possession, and was fined $50 or four weeks' hard labour. The defendant said he had wanted the wine for his own consumption, but his Worship remarked that he could not have wanted such a large quantity.

Detective Sergeant Humphreys mentioned that the defendants were members of the B. & S. steamer Kwei Chow, which had arrived from Tientsin, where they had purchased the wine for about 40 cents per bottle to be resold in the Colony for double that price.

Unfortunately, continued the officer, the police had failed to discover 640 bottles which had been hidden underneath the cargo. By the time the police left the vessel, the cargo had been removed; the consignment of wine was dumped overboard and retrieved during the night.

It was mentioned that the defendants had had the wine cleverly hidden in various parts of the ship.

The store keeper, who it was alleged, had had 192 bottles in his possession, was fined $250, or four months' hard labour in default.

The prosecuting officer mentioned that in the defendant's favour was the fact that he had admitted ownership of the wine when it was found, although he did not tell the police that there were another 640 bottles under the cargo.

EAST INDIES TRIAL FLIGHTS.BRITISH ATTITUDE ON FACILITIES.

London, Dec. 16.

In the House of Commons, in reply to questions, Mr. Wedgwood Benn, Secretary for India, stated that the Government of India had granted facilities for the Dutch East Indies air mail trial flights in 1929, but was unable to permit the use of the Indian air route permanently until the ground organisation was complete.

Mr. Arthur Henderson said he had received a request from the Netherlands Minister in London for facilities for trial flights in 1930, and that this involved consultation with the Government of India.—Reuter.

THAMES FLOODS SUBSIDING.MARGIN OF SAFETY ON EMBANKMENT.

London, Dec. 16.

The floods in the Thames Valley continued to recede rapidly today. A fall of over one foot in the river during the last 24 hours has been recorded at Molesey Lock, and the rate of flow also shows a big reduction.

Hightide passed this afternoon, leaving a big margin of safety on the Thames Embankment, where flooding occurred last year.—British Wireless.

FIERCE STORMS ENDED.FRENCH Lighthouse RELIEF.

Paris, Dec. 16.

The black flag, denoting distress, flying at the lighthouse of Lavieille for a week of the fiercest storms, frustrating the most courageous efforts of rescuers to approach, has at length been hauled down. A relief vessel, rudderless and battered, has succeeded in passing food in waterproof sacks from a distance of twenty yards.—Reuter.

Mr. W. Schofield, who resumed the office of Kowloon Magistrate on his return from leave recently, has been transferred to another Department and his place has been taken by M. T. S. Whyte Smith, who adjudicated during Mr. Schofield's absence.

SIGNED A BLANK PAPER.UNUSUAL MONEY LENDING CASE IN COURT.*SALT IN PAYMENT.

An alleged agreement in which a Chinese signed a piece of paper bearing a stamp, but no writing, in return for which he received $50 from an Indian moneylender and for which he was to pay back 43 pheasants of salt in full settlement of principal and interest, was mentioned during the course of an action before the Pulse Judge (Mr. Justice Wood) in the Supreme Court this morning.

The plaintiff was Bhag Singh, of the Rope factory, Mautaukot, who, through his attorney, Amrik Singh, sued Chan Chuen and Ah Sun, husband and wife, claiming $108, being due to $100 money lent under a promissory note dated April 13, 1929, and $8, being four months' interest. Both parties conducted their own cases.

Amrik Singh stated that Bhag Singh sailed for India on December 2, but Chan Chuen declared that Bhag Singh was still in the Colony and appeared before the Court on Friday last.

His Lordship was unable to find any record of Bhag Singh's appearance and later Chan Chuen explained that he had mistaken an Indian guard on the s.s. Tung On for Bhag Singh.

Defendant said that he signed a paper which was blank, except for a stamp, and it was agreed that he should give to Bhag Singh 43 pheasants of salt in full settlement.

His Lordship pointed out that Bhag Singh was not present and the Court could not hear his version. His Lordship found that defendant was not liable on the note at all and if plaintiff wished to proceed again when he returned he could not sue to recover more than $50. Judgment would be given for defendant.

HEROIN PILLS.JUNK MISTRESS HEAVILY FINED.

A fine of $600, with the alternative of three months' hard labour, was imposed by Mr. T. S. Whyte Smith at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning when the mistress of a trading junk appeared on remand on a charge of being in possession of 200,000 heroin pills.

Mr. H. A. Taylor appeared in Court this morning following his Worship's request yesterday for further information as to the danger of the pills. The Monopoly Analyst informed his Worship that anything which contained heroin constituted dangerous drug, and he added that the pills in Court not only contained heroin but also strychnine, which in itself, was very dangerous.

Mr. Taylor intimated that the pills were valued at $40 per tin, wholesale price, the entire quantity being worth $80.

THE SOVIET WAY.DEATH SENTENCES FOR TRADE UNIONISTS.

Riga, Dec. 16.

Great importance is attached to the conversations to-day. The Pact is to be signed to-morrow.—Reuter.

DESTITUTE LAMA'S LONG WALK.2,000 MILE TREK DOWN TO HONGKONG.*GETS SUCCOUR HERE.

There recently arrived here an individual dressed in the robes of a lama, none too clean, but nevertheless in a good state of preservation. In his peregrinations through the town he was followed by a small boy, to all appearances a tiny edition of himself. The pair attracted much notice, and when last seen, before being taken into custody by the police, were holding forth to a crowd on the properties of some medicine which they were endeavouring to sell at what would have been ridiculous prices. If the medicine was what it was claimed to be,

While retained in police custody it was noticed that the lama begged closely unto himself a sort of religious staff, very richly carved and with the figure of a pensive Buddha surmounting the top. He displayed much apprehension over its safety, seemingly reluctant to part with it, until reassured by the police that it would be returned to him at the proper time.

Meanwhile the police enquired into his case, and ascertained that he was a pilgrim who had come down all the way from Szechuan to worship at a shrine at Canton.

He claimed for his staff the magic effect of warding off all evils in the form of man, beast and monster, but it is rather thought that his rugged appearance had been his best means of protection against that most potent of enemies—the bandit—in the 2,000 miles of his journey from the interior.

Now utterly destitute, he has been endeavouring to raise, by the sale of his medicine, the wherewithal to return to Shanghai. The authorities have found him a deserving case, and while committing him to the care of the Tung Wah Hospital, have made him a small initial grant for his passage to the Northern port.

THE R100'S FIRST FLIGHT.

AIRSHIP REMAINS ALOFT FOR SIX HOURS.

GIVES SATISFACTION.

London, Dec. 16.

The R100 made a successful maiden flight to-day.

After leaving the hangar at Howden, Yorkshire, she remained in the air for six hours and was tested with satisfactory results at varying heights and speeds, generally cruising at about 70 miles an hour before descending at Caddington, where she was locked to the mooring tower previously used by the R101.

The new airship left her shed at Howden at 6 a.m. in fine weather.

Five hundred soldiers hauled the airship out, and a large crowd of spectators cheered the start.

The shed permits of so little clearance for the vast ship, which is 709 feet long, with 133 feet beam and 133 feet high, that three or four minutes' time was necessary

RECENT RAILWAY INCIDENT.CASE TO BE HEARD ALL OVER AGAIN.*R. O. TALLON CHARGED.

How the driver of a public car cut in between her and a lorry in Chater Road was described by Mrs. Mary Bertha Barker, at the Central Magistracy this morning, when a Chinese was charged with driving a car in a dangerous manner.

Inspector Alexander said that on December 6, Mrs. Barker was driving her car along Chater Road and when near Murray Road slowed up behind a motor lorry, when defendant cut in between the two vehicles.

Mrs. Barker, in corroboration, said she was proceeding in her car along Chater Road between 3.30 and 4 pm. on December 6, and was driving near Murray Road when defendant cut in between the two vehicles.

His Worship:—I suppose we shall have to begin all over again?

Mr. Rendall:—Yes; I don't know who arranges all these matters, but it's a waste of time for my witness.

His Worship:—I haven't read through the depositions and possibly I had better not and treat it as an absolutely new case. I don't know if it requires an opening again.

Mr. Andrews:—No. Are you going to continue the case or what?

His Worship:—I am going to begin it again.

Mr. Andrews recalled a case at Home where a judge died before the hearing was concluded and the new judge continued with the case.

His Worship:—You haven't got that authority?

Mr. Andrews:—No; unfortunately I have not looked it up. I can get it though. Still, it will waste the morning if I do. You see, this is not my case and it does not concern me.

Mr. Rendall mentioned that the case had already been before the Court for some time and thought that they should take no risks of further delay. He suggested that they should take the case all over again.

The case was accordingly re-enacted, Mr. Rendall calling Mr. James Smith, of the Kowloon-Canton Railway, to give evidence of finding a broken steam-gauge on the engine on which the alleged incident took place. The witness repeated his previous evidence.

The hearing will be continued this afternoon.

RAILWAY BRIDGE DAMAGE.TRAINS FROM KOWLOON TO SHEK LUNG.

Canton, Dec. 16.

It is reported here that General Lam Tsun-hang has successfully suppressed bandits in the East River District. This is gratifying in view of the fact that the blowing up of the Shink Ha railway bridge on the Canton-Kowloon Railway on Friday was put down to bandits. However, others state that the bridge was blown up by the troops of General Hsu King-tong.

The Canton Gazette, in referring to the suppression of the bandits, does not comment on the blowing up of the bridge, but merely states that the railway service between Canton and Kowloon has been suspended owing to damage on the rails near Shek Ha Station.

In the meantime, the Railway Administration has arranged to run one train daily in each direction, from Canton to Sien Tsien and from Shek Lung to Kowloon, but this leaves a break of 11.15 miles between Sien Tsien and Shek Lung.

An allegation that with others unknown he committed a robbery on November 8, at Jardine's Bazaar, is made against Ip To, alias To Tak. Football.

The following have been selected for the annual charity match for the Navy versus the Army at Sookunpo on Thursday afternoon. Jarvis; McGregor; Jones; Pugsley; Tilley; Sturdivent; Van Tromp; Firth; Cann; Dickinson.

The General Officer Commanding the Troops in China (Major-General J. W. Sandilands, C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O.) has kindly consented to kick-off. Massed bands of H.M.S. Kent, Cornwall and Hermes, by the kind permission of the Captains of the ships, will play.

Yesterday's Matches.

At Happy Valley yesterday afternoon, Headquarters Wing, K.O.S.B. ran out comfortable winners by four goals to all. Teams:

H.Q. Wing, K.O.S.B.—Boys' Crow; Bond; Riordan; Gardiner; Skiggs; Sawyers; Rhodes; Crawley; Milligan; Hyde.

(H) Bty., R.A.—Naylor; Rabone; Ashdown; Gorst; Dunning; Taylor; Stanton; Rogers; Trottell; Leary; Fleming.

In this match in the Hongkong Area Football League, the winners had all the best of the play, and deserved their win. The first goal came from Hyde. Pressure on both wings made good ground for the Borderers, and Rhodes got past the defence to score. After the interval, Rhodes scored again for the Borderers, and Sawyer obtained the last goal.

H.Q. Wing, S.L.I. v R.A.M.C.

The Medics were not at full strength yesterday afternoon at Sookunpo when they lost to Headquarters Wing, S.L.I. by three goals to nil. Teams:

H.Q. S.L.I.—Wallace; Green; Niel; Hooker; Heywood; Bristol; Guest; Hall; Early; Baggett; Hancock; R.A.M.C.—McGowan; McLeary; Joyce; McGuire; Dodshon; Thomas; Elliott; Gonling; Jenkins; Devlin; Evans.

Early, true to his name, was the first to score after five minutes with a shot that McGowan might have held. The Somersets scored an easy goal through Hancock, who shot into an empty goal when McGowan had come out to clear. No further score occurred in the first half. After the interval, the Medics commenced pressuring, and forced two corners in quick succession, without result. Hancock scored his side's last goal with a rather deceiving shot that got to the right-hand corner of the net. Although the Medics put up a stout defence, they were always unfortunate in their attacks, and Wallace had a comfortable afternoon, being only tried once, a shot from Jenkins making him give a corner.

(H) Bty., R.A. v "B" Coy., K.O.S.B.

At Chatham Road, the Gunners trounced the Borderers by seven goals to one, though many rushes by the latter looked like scoring more than their lone goal. A strong team from the Gunners was the deciding factor. Teams:

31st (H) Bty., R.A.—Maltby; Oliver; Seal; Hull; Fletcher; Joyce; Cotton; Leach; Gill; Davey; A. N. Other.

"B" Coy., K.O.S.B.—Westland; Dowsey; Anderson; Aitken; McLaughlin; Mills; Keown; Cook; McFarlane; Dikken; A. N. Other.

Dowsey handled the ball in the penalty area, and Leach took the spot-kick but failed to score. The kick was re-taken, through a K.O.S.B. player rushing into the penalty-area, and Leach made no mistake the second time, and later scored a second goal. A good goal for the Gunners, with the Borderers standing still appealing for off-side, closed the first half.

Dowsey pluckily robbed Leach of the ball in the first minute of the second half, after the last-named had made a good dribble through, and a raid by the Borderers gave Maltby an opportunity to show his capabilities at a shot by Dignan. McFarlane hit the upright when the Gunners recommenced their pressure, but a goal from Rodger settled the issue for the Borderers, whilst Gill scored again for the Gunners soon afterwards. McFarlane scored the Borderers' only goal after a brilliant solo effort, keeping both backs before shooting. The

CARNERA UNPOPULAR.

PRIMITIVE FURY HAS A BAD EFFECT.

London, Dec. 16. The floodlights of favourable publicity which were recently turned on Carnera released tidal wave of popularity which is now fast subsiding.

Hailed by short-sighted critics as the boxing sensation of the century, Carnera's fights against Strubling on October 17 and December 7 stripped him of every boxing attribute. Now an influential chorus of opinion is that his primitive displays of fury should rule him out from English rings.

Lord Lansdale declared the British Boxing Board should not put Carnera in the ring against the German heavyweight Diener at the Albert Hall tomorrow, as he does not conform with our idea of how a fighting man should behave. Simultaneously, a Sunday newspaper featured an article appealing to the Home Secretary to debar Carnera. It is noteworthy that Carnera was booked for a charity performance last night at the London Hippodrome. His name was in the programme, but he received a last-minute telephone message cancelling his turn, as the Hippodrome was unable to get the Lord Chamberlain's permission.

His manager has procured a shrill whistle to obviate a repetition of the incidents of December 7, hitting after the bell sounds, to-morrow.—Reuter.

WAH YAN COLLEGE.

CELEBRATION OF TENTH ANNIVERSARY.

To mark the tenth anniversary of the foundation of the Institution, the Director and Staff of the Wah Yan College entertained a large number of friends to dinner last night within the spacious Hall of the College at Robinson Road. The gathering sat down to an excellent Chinese meal, the function being enlivened by an orchestra.

Mr. P. Tsui, the founder of Wah Yan College ten years ago, in the course of a short address in which he expressed thanks to those present for taking part in the celebration, gave a short history of the College. He said:

The Wah Yan College had its cradle at No. 80, Hollywood Road, consisting of one flat, one teacher and four boys. At the end of one year the number of pupils went up to 100, occupying four flats. In 1921, a proper school building at Robinson Road was rented and the number on the roll was 400. In 1924 a branch was opened at Kowloon. Gradually there was an increase in both pupils and teachers, and now there are 800 boys, including 100 boarders, on this side and 300 on the mainland, and a staff of 46. To accommodate this number we have to occupy the St. Joseph's Mansion and the Wah Yan College Building at Robinson Road, and the Wah Yan College Kowloon Branch Building at Nelson Street, Kowloon. So much for the physical growth of the college.

Growth of the College.

The intellectual growth of the college may be shown by the results of the Local University Examinations. Up to 1928 the passes were 56. Matriculations, including five Honours, 80 Seniors and 168 Juniors. Wah Yan boys have also been awarded the King Edward VII scholarship, the Government Educational scholarship, and Government Studentship.

Who are responsible for the rapid growth of the college? It is certainly not I. Wah Yan owes its development to: (1) the charitable Catholic missionaries who are always prepared to help those who are in need; (2) the generous local Government whose educational representatives are always keeping a watchful eye on all schools and ever ready to help those that deserve assistance; (3) the staunch loyalty and support of a truly hard-working staff whose valuable services I have been fortunate enough to secure.

I must not forget to mention that many of our teachers were educated in the Christian Brothers' schools. I myself learned school management mostly from Rev. Bro. Aimar, Director of St. Joseph's College, who, I am sorry to say, is unable to join us this evening. I am also glad to say that with the help of the Italian and the Jesuit Fathers the college has been the means of bringing to the knowledge of many of its pupils the wonderful ideals of Christianity.

And now, Gentlemen, I must conclude. I fervently hope that fifteen years hence, when Wah Yan celebrates its silver jubilee, I shall be alive to welcome you again in a more spacious hall and amid happier surroundings.

Bishop Valtorta's Remarks.

The Right Rev. Bishop Valtorta said that it seemed to him yesterday that Mr. Tsui came to his predecessor and Father Marie asking their support for a scheme regarding a school which he was proposing to start. That support was very readily given, but they never thought that the School was going to grow so much. Mr. Tsui, he was glad to say, had been extremely successful, and that was due to his great ability, to his great work, and to his great luck. He had been very lucky in finding very great help from the Government, and also in earning the goodwill of their friend, Mr. Ralphs. He had also been very lucky in being able to extend the school premises on all sides, surmounting much that was difficult in a difficult site. With the College bursting through its limits, he had also been able to find a safety valve in the Wah Yan College Branch at Kowloon. (Laughter).

Concluding, Bishop Valtorta asked the gathering to join with him in congratulating Mr. Tsui and his staff for their work and wishing every success for the future of the College. (Applause).

Small Beginnings.

Mr. E. Ralphs, in a harvy speech, recalled the small beginnings from which the College grew when ten years ago it started as a tiny school with four pupils in a flat at Hollywood Road. As the College gradually expanded in the number of its pupils, Mr. Tsui, the founder, was confronted with a financial problem which made him spend many sleepless nights. (Laughter). It was no secret now to recall that critical moment when Mr. Tsui, while being faced

COURT SENSATION.

DEPUTY'S INSTRUCTIONS OVER RULED BY JUDGE.

A final hearing was set for last week in the criminal action instituted in the Shanghai Provincial Court by Anderson, Meyer & Co., Ltd. against Chen Tze-hsun, of the Heng Loon Bank, for alleged fraud in connexion with a mortgage covering all of the assets of the Heng Dah Cotton Mill in Pootung, including the mill power plant and machinery, which, under the terms of the contract of sale, was still the property of Anderson, Meyer & Co., Ltd.

Judge C. S. Franklin, of Fleming, Franklin & Allman, appeared on behalf of Anderson, Meyer & Co., and with him was associated Mr. Wang Yu-jing, ex-Minister of Justice.

When the Court opened the attorneys for the defendant produced telegram which they had received from the defendant from Ningpo stating that he was sick and unable to be present and asking for an adjournment. Mr. Stevens, the American Consular Deputy, asked why the defendant had left the jurisdiction of the Court without the Court's permission while a criminal action in which he was involved was in process of trial.

The lawyer for the defence stated that the defendant's intention to visit Ningpo had been told to the Court and that the record of the hearing on November 19 would show such statement.

Mr. Stevens then called for the record and the statement referred to could not be found.

The Deputy's Order.

Mr. Stevens then announced the action of the defendant in leaving without permission constituted contempt of court and was just another attempt to thwart the proper administration of justice. He instructed the police to effect the arrest of the defendant immediately upon his return to the jurisdiction of the Court and to keep him in detention until he had appeared before an American Consular Deputy.

The Chinese Judge announced that he did not agree with Mr. Stevens' ruling and instructed the police to disregard the same.

Mr. Stevens then stated that he desired to enter a protest against the change of two of the three Chinese Judges sitting in the case at the last moment, pointing out that the presiding Judge and one associate Judge then on the bench had not been present at any of the previous hearings of the case and were totally unfamiliar with what had transpired at such previous hearings.

Mr. Franklin then requested Mr. Stevens to report the afternoon's proceedings to the Commission now sitting in Nanking, in connexion with proposed changes in the Provisional Court and Mr. Stevens replied that not only the afternoon's proceedings but the entire case from beginning to end would be reported to such Commission as the case had been an open scandal for years.

with such a problem, had an offer made to him to take the School from his hands with his being continued as its Headmaster at a salary which should have put an end to his financial trouble. It was to his lasting credit that Mr. Tsui came out with the decision to keep his colours nailed to the mast and to go down fighting if he did not succeed. He succeeded, to what extent they could gauge from the fact that the College, under his fostering care, had now grown into one of the largest institutions of its kind in Hongkong, with 800 boys on the roll of the main College in Hongkong, 300 in Kowloon, and a staff of 45 teachers. He (the speaker) was sure that the gathering would agree with him that Mr. Tsui had earned their warmest congratulations. They judged the efficiency of a College by its University examination results, and the account they had received of the success of the pupils in these examinations testified to the efficiency of the Wah Yan College. He (the speaker) would also add that the Wah Yan had earned very satisfactory reports for high efficiency from the Education Department.

Concluding, Mr. Ralphs extended the warmest congratulations to Mr. Tsui and the Headmaster, Mr. Lim, and paid a warm tribute to their ability.

Mr. Lim, the Headmaster, also spoke, as did an old pupil of the College.

A musical programme was rendered by Mr. Li Chor-chi, vocalist, and Mr. Longyear, who accompanied Mr. Li on the piano. This, as well as the orchestra selections, were much enjoyed by those present, who included the Hon. Sir Shouson Chow and practically all the leading educationists, of the Colony.

BANDITS' CAPTIVE.

SEEN PREACHING WHEN UNDER RESTRAINT.

Up to November 21, all efforts to discover the whereabouts of Mr. Pike, who was captured by bandits on September 17, in the Honan region, had failed. Word was received in October by Mrs. Pike, through two Chinese servants who had accompanied Mr. Pike up to the time of his capture, that bandits had robbed him of his clothing and money and were treating him very badly, holding him for a ransom, which he refused to promise. The Chinese were forbidden to go with Mr. Pike under penalty of death, and were driven away by threats with pointed pistols and by blows, although they desired to remain with their master.

On November 21, word was received that a Mohammedan woman had reported having seen Mr. Pike about the middle of October. He was standing in the middle of the market place in Chingshan with the bandits. His hands were bound with cords behind his back, but he was preaching to the crowd.

The officer in charge of the district reported that foreign clothing, and a saddle and horse had been seen about 40 ft from Chingshan. It is thought that they may belong to Mr. Pike. Word has also been received that a detachment of soldiers were sent out with eleven prisoners and after two men were brought in. These men were said to be those who took Mr. Pike, but their leader had managed to escape.

SUCCESSFUL PUPILS.

FORMERLY AT CENTRAL BRITISH SCHOOL.

J. Vickars, who passed the Matriculation Examination, with honours, of the University of Hongkong in November 1927, and who was admitted to Liverpool University last year, has passed the Intermediate Examination, (Engineering) of the latter University. He is secretary of the University Swimming Club and was a member of the University team in the inter-Universities team race at Cardiff, Liverpool securing second place. He was chosen to play in a water-polo match, Northern V. Southern Universities and is in the 2nd. XV Rugby team.

Joyce Raven, who went to The Godolphin School, Salisbury, has passed the School Certificate Examination, University of Cambridge Local Examinations in the following subjects—English, History, Geography, French, Oral and Written, Arithmetic, Botany and Music.

PIANO RECITAL.

YOUNG ENTERTAINERS DO EXCELLENTLY.

Youthful talent was well expressed in the piano-forte recital given yesterday afternoon, in the St. Andrew's Church Hall, by Mrs. J. R. Suiter's pupils, and these very promising young pianists gave an excellent entertainment which was enjoyed to the full by the large gathering present.

The programme might almost be described as ambitious, for it included works by Bach, Schubert, Offenbach, Rachmaninoff, Liszt, Mendelssohn, Chopin and Mozart, but Mrs. Suiter's clever pupils acquitted themselves admirably and gave really delightful treatment to some of these composers' popular scores.

It would be rather invidious to single out any particular student, for one and all, from the youngest, who played the beautiful old traditional tunes such as "Home Sweet Home," "Simple Duet" and "Comin' Thro' the Rye," to the more advanced, who interpreted Offenbach's "Barcarolle," Elgar's "Salut d'Amour" and Liszt's "No. 13. Rhapsodie," revealed real talent, and were a great credit not only to Mrs. Suiter, but to themselves.

Added enjoyment was lent to the entertainment by the appearance of Mrs. Gardiner, who sang "My Prayer" (Squire) and "Spring is Here" (Dick) extremely sweetly.

At the close of the programme, Mrs. E. Cock kindly presented the Trinity College of Music certificates to successful candidates.

Advice to Students.

In expressing thanks to her for doing so, and to Mrs. Suiter for arranging such an excellent musical treat, Mr. George Grimble said he had been asked "What was music?" and to that he replied that it was no art, but as an art, was unconquerable. He would like to give a few hints to the children that day. He advised them to work out a time-table and to use a note-book in which to chronicle their impressions of the music they were playing. They must practise hard, and try and dissect their music. If they experienced any particular difficulty they should practise: one hand, and above all they must treat the piano as their friend. They must care for the notes and use their brains, fingers and the keyboard at the same time.

Referring to the successes of Mrs. Suiter's pupils at the local Trinity College examinations, Mr. Grimble pointed out that in the practical part, eleven were entered and nine passed; while in the theoretical part eight were entered and seven passed, two of them with honours, Isabel Pestonji topping the local list with 93 marks, and Bernard Bickford being third with 87 marks. In the preparatory division, two of the pupils topped the local list, with 86 marks each, these being Clement Leong and Eric Wood. Special mention was due to Mrs. Inouye, who was the only candidate to pass the senior theory examination, after four months tuition.

The pupils who performed a long and varied programme were as under:

Fuki Inouye, Sumito Ishizaka, Tommy Butler, Andre Pestonji, Deamond Hooper, Peggy Macfayden, Charlie Bander, John Green, Steve Bander, Samas Ohta, Yasuki Mori, Jean Hooper, Mavis Glendinning, Shizuko Suzuki, Clement Leong, Edith Wood, Phyllis Teale, Kathleen Chester, Eric Wood, Agnes Leong, Marian Gardiner, Bernard Bickford, Beatrice Pestonji, Isabel Pestonji, Alice Wood, Joyce Patterson, Molly George, Joan Paterson, Doris Booker, and Margaret Eccleshall.

The Avenging Parrot

CHAPTER XX.

"Any news, chief?" Dundee asked. Strawn when the two detectives were again in Mrs. Hogarth's room.

"Nothing new," Strawn admitted wearily. Then, to Boyle, the uniformed policeman who had kept watch in the room and who looked sadly in need of sleep, "Anything happen after we left, Boyle?"

"Quiet as the grave," Boyle answered coolly. "The parrot squawked once or twice, but I shut his trap by covering up his cage with one of the old dame's skirts."

As Strawn dismissed the policeman, Dundee stepped to the cage and removed the smothering skirt.

"Poor Cap'n!" he sympathized. "Nearly dead, old top? I'll fill your water dish."

And he did, reaching fearlessly into the cage while Strawn looked on in amazement, for the drooping, dispirited bird made no attempt to nip his fingers. Dundee filled the little dish from the tap of the basin behind the green-burk screen, returned it to the cage, and, with the door still open, stroked the bird's feathers with a gentle hand. Suddenly he uttered a startled exclamation.

"What is it?" Strawn asked sharply, striding to the cage.

"Look!" And Dundee drew out something between thumb and forefinger and offered it for his chief's inspection. "What would you say this is, Strawn?"

Lieutenant Strawn took the thing, rolled it on his palm. "Looks like a bit of skin, doesn't it? Now how did that get into the parrot's cage?"

"Cora Barker burned her hand last night, chief," Dundee reminded him softly. "Rather an odd time—a quarter past 12—for a tired, hot working woman to decide to press a dress she would not wear till Sunday, wasn't it?"

"You think she burned her hand to cover up the evidence that she'd been bitten by the parrot?" Strawn demanded, in amazement. "Well, if that's so, I guess we've got her dead-to-rights as Sevier's accomplice! I'll have a look at that hand—"

"Just a minute, chief," Dundee begged. "I found two or three rather important items in Mrs. Hogarth's diary, and this morning in talking with Mrs. Rhodes before the others came down, I learned a few other things that seem pretty important to me."

In spite of the chief's impatience, Dundee quietly read the noteworthy excerpts from the diary, then told in detail his conversation with Mrs. Rhodes.

"Don't you agree with me, lieutenant," he concluded eagerly, "that there may be another motive for the crime that we haven't discovered yet? It seems absolutely clear to me that the old lady had no hidden miser's hoard in this room—"

"Makes no difference, if Sevier and Cora Barker thought she did," Strawn interrupted almost angrily.

"Bad penny!" Dundee reminded him stubbornly.

"Bosh!" Strawn dismissed the idea contemptuously.

"I'm afraid it isn't bosh," Dundee insisted quietly. "For five years, by her own written admission, Mrs. Hogarth lived in 'dread—not fear, mind you, but dread—that D. S.'s husband, would 'turn up.' It seems pretty clear to me that S. and Mrs. Hogarth fled from their home town, I don't know whether they deserted D. or whether he had already deserted them, but the two women, Mrs. Hogarth here, and S. in some other city, dreaded his 'turning up.'

"Suppose he did 'turn up' in Hamilton with the express purpose of seeing Mrs. Hogarth. She dreaded his 'turning up,' but she has recorded no fear of consequences to herself if he did appear. What if D. came through that window last night, and Mrs. Hogarth saw him? She would not cry out to alarm the house, if she recognized him, but she might very well greet him with the old proverb, sarcastically: 'So the bad penny has turned up at last!' I can imagine, chief, that those words 'bad penny' were repeated two or even three times between Mrs. Hogarth and D.—"

"You can imagine a lot of tommyrot," Strawn interrupted irritably.

"This isn't a detective story, Dundee. It's an every-day police case in the ordinary little old town of Hamilton, in these prosaic old United States. . . . No, boy; you're having a swell time, and I hate to ruin your day, but Mrs. Hogarth was murdered for the money she either had or was supposed to have hidden in this room, and when we find Sevier—Why, look, boy! your own story is full of holes! If this mysterious D., whoever he is, actually did come here to see the old lady, he would have known that she had no money and that S. was supporting her. And if Mrs. Hogarth 'dreaded' him but did not fear him, why did he kill her and ransack this room?"

"I'm not a clairvoyant," Dundee grinned, "but isn't there a chance came slouching into the room, followed by his anxious wife.

"If you females wouldn't break the rules and wash your hair in the basin, things like this wouldn't happen," Dusty complained disgustedly as he knelt to dry his wrench.

A minute later, as Dusty pulled out the upper section of the drain pipe, its little cross bars matted with long black hair, Dundee risked exposure of his connexion with the Optional Clause. TRAFFIC CASES.

SANITARY INSPECTOR CAUTIONED.

A charge of failing to have full control over his motor car was brought against Sanitary Inspector Frost, before Mr. T. S. Whyte Smith, at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday afternoon, Sub-Inspector Nicol appearing as the complainant.

In reply to his Worship as to whether he admitted or denied the charge, the defendant said that for two seconds he did not have full control over the vehicle.

Sub-Inspector Nicol said that the defendant had taken off his hat with his left hand and smoothed his hair with his right. The car swerved slightly but there was no other traffic on the road at the time.

His Worship: I saw a very well-known citizen going down Garden Road the other day and he took both his hands off the wheel and adjusted the glass screen in front?

Sub-Inspector Nicol: It amounts to the same thing, your Worship.

His Worship: I suppose it depends, to a certain extent, on the kind of car you are driving. On one car the steering is more...

Sub-Inspector Nicol: There's more play on some cars than on others and a heavy car is liable to hold the road better than a light car.

His Worship: What sort of a car was Mr. Frost's?

Defendant: G. W. K.

His Worship: (to defendant): Was there any particular reason for taking both hands off?

Defendant: I think there was a slight mistake in Sub-Inspector Nicol's evidence. I put on my hat and pressed it down because it was windy. The car would not have shot off the road in that short space of time. The steering wheel is very stiff.

His Worship: There isn't much play?

Defendant: There's no play.

His Worship: Well, Mr. Frost, I think in future, unless it is absolutely necessary, you had better keep both hands or at least one hand, on the wheel. Cautioned: Incident in Nathan Road.

An incident, which occurred in Nathan Road shortly after eleven o'clock on the night of November 23, was recalled before Mr. Whyte Smith, when Mr. A. Gascon through the Police summoned the driver of one of the Blue Taxicabs for reckless driving, while the latter in turn summoned Mr. Gascon for assault.

The summons against the taxi driver, having been issued first, Mr. Gascon was called to give evidence. He said that he had left the Star Theatre and was proceeding along Nathan Road when, on nearing the junction of Kimberley Road, witness noticed the lights of a car approaching from the opposite direction.

Witness said that the car was travelling straight towards him, half of the roadway, it was explained, being under repair. Witness had to slow down considerably and when the approaching car was almost on top of him it swerved to the left. After it had passed witness turned his cycle round and stopped the driver.

Witness denied that he had assaulted the driver and mentioned that two Indian constables who later arrived on the scene examined the driver's face but found no marks.

The driver, in the witness box, alleged that when Mr. Gascon asked him for his licence, he said he was a Police Inspector. Witness saw that he was not in uniform and challenged the statement, whereupon he was struck in the face.

Mr. Gascon's Act Questioned.

When asked if he had any questions to ask the witness, regarding the statement that he was a police officer, Mr. Gascon replied that he told witness that he was a member of the Flying Squad!

His Worship: Does that give you the right to see people's licences?

Mr. Gascon: Well, I don't know about that.

Defendant: There's no play.

His Worship: Well, Mr. Frost, I think in future, unless it is absolutely necessary, you had better

MISSIONARIES HELD.

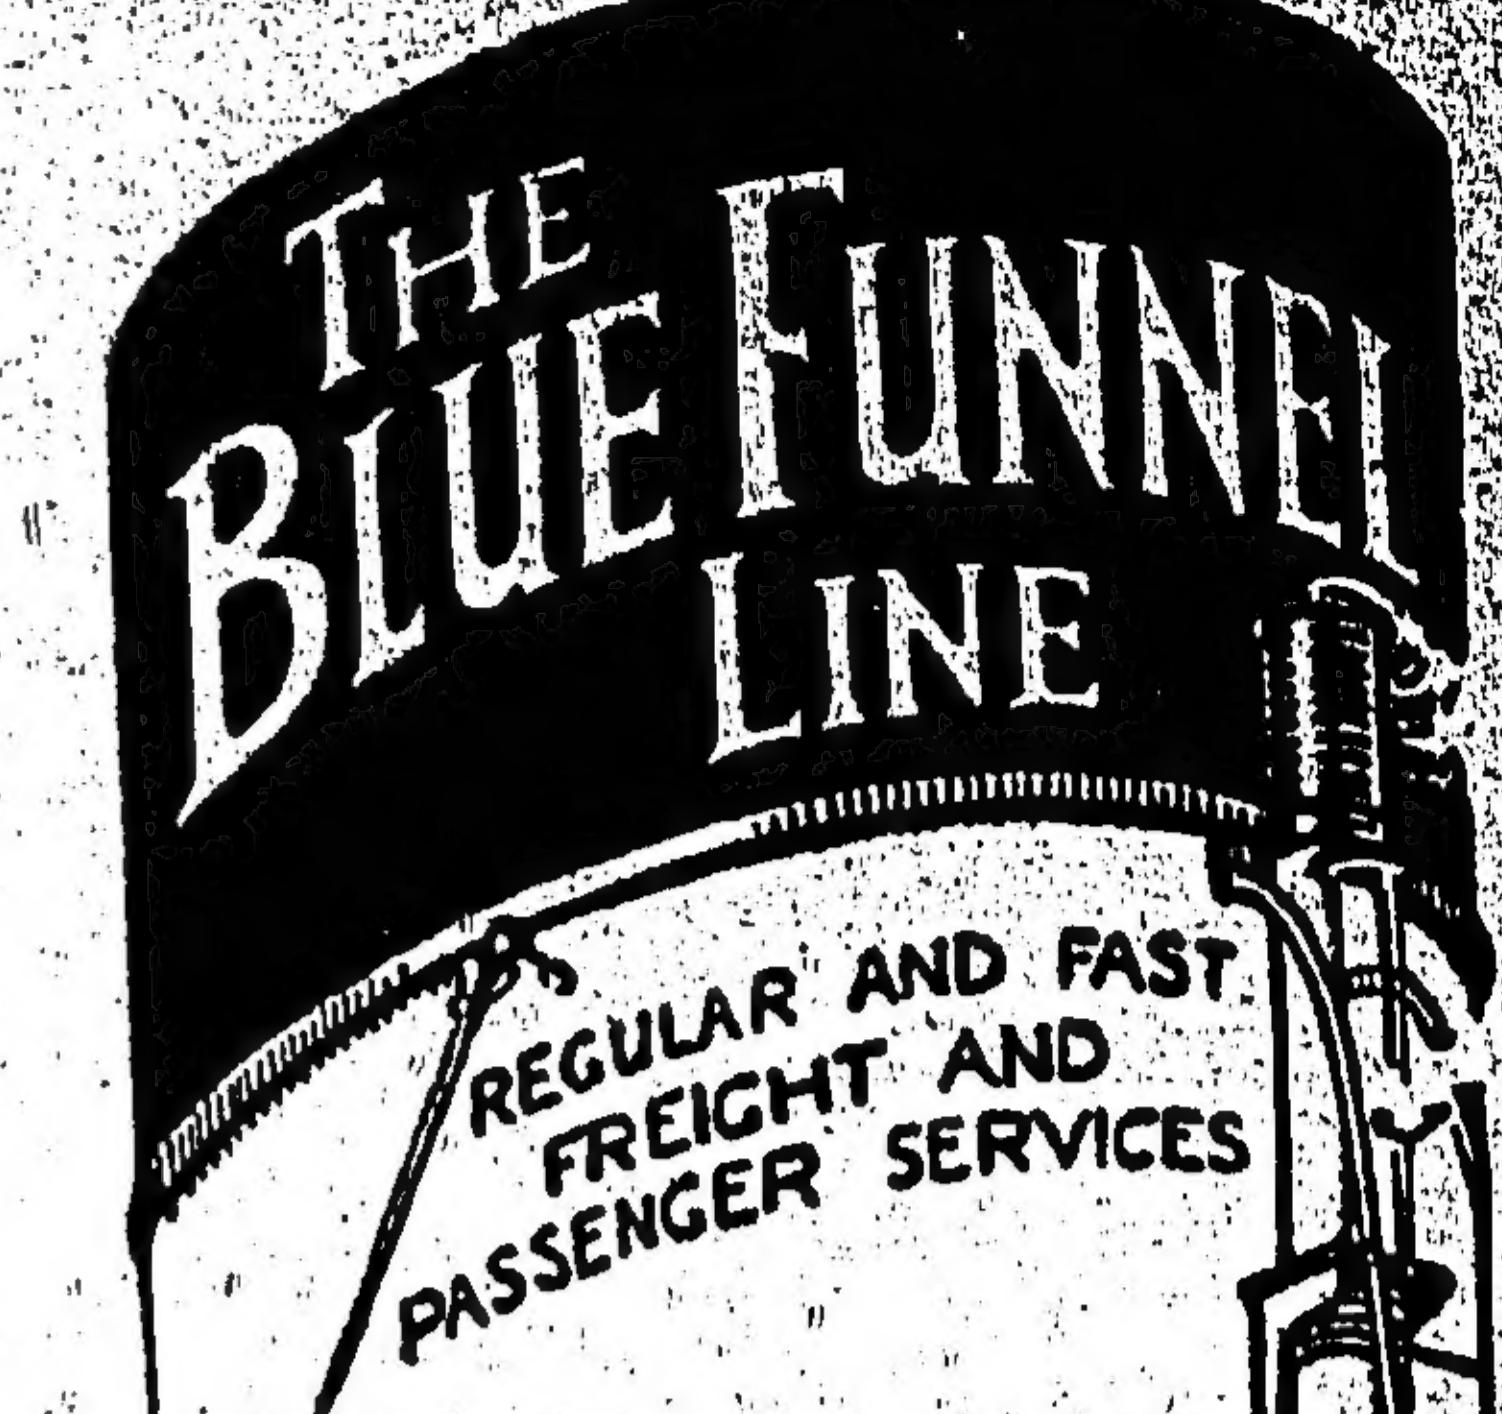

CARRIED OFF BY "REDS" IN RAID ON TAYEH.

A body of Communists made a raid on Tayeh, 50 miles southeast of Hankow, on Friday, drove out the Government troops and occupied the town for three hours. The "Reds" were very well disciplined and there was no indiscriminate looting.

The Rev. H. W. R. Sandy, of the Wesleyan Mission, was captured, being carried off without his hat or coat, together with a magistrate. It is believed that the latter was afterwards released, but the Rev. Sandy is still held by the Communists, who are demanding a large ransom.

Another Missionary Seized.

Later. A message from Hankow says the Reds also abducted Rev. E. H. Livesley, of the same mission, Mr. Sandy, from Tayeh.—Reuters.

promise to pay on demand, that was the effect of it?—Yes.

I think you will admit that the Company was better off that the right of call on shares was converted to call of payment on demand from any shareholder?—Assuming that the shareholder was a substantial person, yes.

Cash Transactions.

We are bound to assume that until his bona fide has been disproved. Supposing that the shareholder has paid cash across the counter and has obtained his share scrip. I think the share scrip will have a place where it is shown so much has been paid in advance of calls. Supposing he had paid money across the counter and supposing he had received a scrip that so much had been paid—so much in payment of calls. Supposing he had paid that money in notes and the notes were received back across the counter and the shareholder put those notes back in his pocket. The effect is that the shareholder has his scrip paid to the extent of the long calls and the Company has an agreement to pay. Assuming that to be bona fide, we have a cash transaction there?—Yes.

It must be so, Mr. Ross?—Yes.

Supposing if the Company were to make a demand on the shareholder—to purport to make a call—he might say: "he might be justified legally in saying: "Look here, I have paid, having accepted the terms agreement in place of calls." That will be the answer?—Yes.

If it is the law that that transaction would be cash, if money is passed backwards and forwards over the counter in that way,—if that is the law, that formality of passing cash can be dispensed with and the transaction can be a cash transaction, even if no money passed at all?—In that case a dollar note can be made always to pass round.

I am supposing that this is bona fide. It is cash transaction, if the formality was dispensed with of passing the money forwards and backwards across the counter?—No, I cannot quite agree that it was a cash transaction. To say that the Company received 7½ lalhs from shareholders and paid it back to the shareholders in one day. No, I cannot agree that it was a cash transaction. It would not be a genuine cash transaction.

We have got to assume that it is genuine (until it is disproved), in which case it can be a cash transaction?—Yes.

All those payments were treated in the books as cash?—Yes.

Assuming the transaction to be genuine, and having treated the payments as cash payments in the books, how else can they be treated in the Statutory Report than as such?—If, they were genuine transactions, then the Report was treated correctly.

I take that point a little further. We put it as high as this: If they were genuine cash transactions and they had been treated in the Report otherwise, Mr. Brewer might have found himself in the dock on a charge of perjury, the other way round?—That may be the law.

That is the law. He might have put himself in very great civil liability if he does not put in the Statutory Report what has been treated as cash in the books?

The Balance Sheet.

Turning to the Balance Sheet, Mr. Davidson asked witness: The balance sheet is a document of considerable complexity—a document which requires an expert to prepare it?—Witness agreed that while it might require a person with special training to prepare it, it should not be unintelligible to every business man.

To anyone who knows about balance sheets, to you for instance? Mr. Ross, to the person of the smallest intelligence it is evident that "uncalled capital" depends on the financial position of the shareholder. I suggest that to put "uncalled capital" on the Assets side of the Balance Sheet is bad accounting, that is all?—It is very bad accounting.

We will compromise on "very bad accounting." You have been shown those applications for shares. A great point has been made on the fact that the agreement to make a deposit is left blank on those forms?—Yes.

Are you aware that it is provided in the Articles of the Company that the amount payable on the applications of shares shall not be less than 5 per cent.?—Witness agreed on being shown the Article in question.

The hearing was adjourned until this afternoon.

A TREE-CUTTING PROBLEM.ACCUSED MAN PRODUCES A PERMIT.CASE ADJOURNED.

In pointing out that it was difficult to decide in cases in which Chinese, who were accused of cutting trees from Government Plantations, produced permits from the Forestry Department, Mr. T. S. Whyte Smith, at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning, remanded a Chinese who was charged with being in possession on the Sal Kung Road of 51 cuttings of pine branches reasonably suspected of having been cut from the hill-side.

The defendant produced a permit issued to his village, but it was pointed out that the licence had expired in June, 1928. He then said that his village had paid the Government over $30 for the right to cut trees in a certain forestry area this year.

His Worship remarked that it was a difficult question for him to decide. Permits, he pointed out, were not issued individually but to the village, and it was possible that the defendant was under the impression that the fee had been paid.

His Worship added that the prosecution should apply to the District Officer and enquire whether the defendant's village had paid the fee for the current year or not.

The case was accordingly adjourned till to-morrow.

HONGKONG FLYING CLUB.INAUGURAL MEETING FIXED FOR FRIDAY.*OFFICIAL SUPPORT.

Considerable interest is being shown in the meeting which is to be held in the Chamber of Commerce room at the City Hall, at 4 p.m. on Friday, for the purpose of forming the Hongkong Flying Club.

H.E. the Governor is to preside, and will speak on aviation in general and on the desirability of establishing a Flying Club in the Colony.

A resolution will subsequently be moved that such a Club be formed, and, if it is approved, that certain persons mentioned in the resolution be authorised to make all the necessary arrangements.

All interested in the project are cordially invited to be present at the meeting, and those who wish to become either Flying or Associate Members will be asked at the conclusion of the meeting to hand in their names and addresses.

It is interesting to recall that in the Colony's Budget for the coming year a sum of $60,000 is earmarked as an initial grant to the Club, this being part of a sum of $300,000 to be allotted within five years.

NATIONAL ECONOMIC COMMITTEE.Premier's Luncheon to Business Leaders.

London, Dec. 16. The Premier gave a luncheon party to-day to leaders of industry and political economists.

Mr. Ramsay MacDonald is taking the opportunity of discussing the idea of forming a National Economic Committee on similar lines to the Committee of Imperial Defence, and it is understood that conversation at these gatherings is crystallising towards the object desired, but no final decision has yet been reached.

Mr. Philip Snowden, Chancellor of the Exchequer, and Mr. J. H. Thomas, Minister-in-Charge of Unemployment, accompanied the Premier.—British Wireless.

THE FRENCH DEBT TO AMERICA.SECURES APPROVAL OF THE U.S. SENATE.

Washington, Dec. 16. The Senate, by 53 votes to 31, ratified the French War Debt settlement, which provides for the payment of $4,025,000,000 over a period of sixty years.

The Bill, which will now go to White House, is the last of the war debt settlements arranged by the Debt Commission, to be approved.

France ratified the agreement last July.—American Service.

PIRACY MENACE IN SOUTH CHINA.BRITISH GOVERNMENT ATTITUDE.*COMMONS DISCUSS CHINA SITUATION.*NANKING'S RECOVERY.

London, Dec. 16. The attempted piracy of the Douglas a.s. Hatchings was mentioned in the House of Commons to-day when Mr. Arthur Henderson, the Foreign Secretary, was asked if he had made any representations to the Chinese Government regarding the increase of piracy along the China Coast.

The Foreign Secretary replied that representations had been repeatedly made in recent years and the British Minister had instructions to keep the matter before the Chinese Government with a view to their taking effective suppressive measures.

However, as far as his information showed, there had been no deterioration in the situation in recent years.

Safety of Commerce.

The problem of securing the safety of British commerce was one that was constantly kept in view. It would have been noticed, he said, that in the recent case of the attack upon the a.s. Hatchings, two British warships had been instrumental in saving the vessel.

In answer to further questions, he stated that the British naval forces available for the protection of British nationals in case of attack upon the Yangtze.

Two Under Heavy Fire Above Ichang.

YANGTSE STEAMER'S EXPERIENCE.

Coincident with the report, appearing elsewhere, of shots being fired on H.M.S. Seaweed on the West River, comes news of a recurrence of firing on merchant ships on the Yangtze.

A report received by wireless this morning states that at the a.s. Iping and the a.s. Iling, of the Yangtze Rapidis Company, were under heavy fire 46 miles above Ichang on Saturday.

The report makes no mention of the damage suffered by the vessels.

Danger were five cruisers, one aircraft carrier, eight destroyers, five sloops and eighteen gunboats.

The available military forces consisted of three battalions at Hongkong and two at Tientsin, with small detachments at Peking and Weihaiwei.

Comparative Strengths.

The other foreign Powers had an aggregate naval strength in Chinese waters which was approximately the same, and about eight thousand troops, mainly at Tientsin and Shanghai.

Mr. J. S. Wardlaw Milne (Con., Kidderminster) asked whether Japan was included among the other Powers mentioned.

Mr. Henderson asked for notice of that question.

Mr. Charles Williams (Con., Torquay) asked if Mr. Henderson meant that the whole of the British naval forces in China were at least as great as the whole of the remaining foreign forces put together, including Japan.

Mr. Henderson replied: "I think

I was dealing with a comparison of the military forces."

Political Situation.

Asked regarding the general political situation in China arising from the new rebellion against Marshal Chiang Kai-shek's regime, the Foreign Secretary said that the situation at Nanking and Shanghai appeared to be quiet, except for minor trouble along the Shanghai-Nanking Railway.

No serious fighting had taken place on the Pukow front, and troops were being sent back to Hankow, on which Tang Seng-chi had threatened to converge.

Hankow was not disturbed at the moment, and Tsinanfu, Peking,

Tientsin, Chinkiang and Manchuria

all seemed normal.

Mr. Peter MacDonald (Con., Isle of Wight) asked if the rising was due to Soviet propaganda.

Mr. Henderson said he had no information. According to a Press report a Sino-Soviet agreement had been reached locally on the immediate issues in Manchuria, but

ILLEGIT DRUG RING BROKEN UP.CLUE IN EGYPT LEADS TO DISCOVERY.*HUGE ORGANISATION.

Cairo, Dec. 16. The discovery of a large quantity of heroin derivative in a consignment of building material from Bale, Switzerland, provided the Egyptian authorities with the clue which resulted in the unearthing of a widespread organisation for the smuggling of dangerous drugs to Egypt and the Far East from Europe.

The co-operation of the Egyptian, Swiss and Italian authorities has led to the breaking up of the gang.

Many arrests have been made, implicating various persons at Lugano, Milan, Genoa and Strasbourg, including a certain Doctor Muller, of Bale, whose books, seized during the recent raid, showed extensive dealings in drugs, including "ester" of morphine.

"Ester" of morphine is not, at present, classified in Swiss law as a narcotic, but as a result of the present episode it is hoped shortly to treat it as such.

The organisation was found to have its headquarters at Bale. The police raided the premises a few days ago as a result of information from Cairo, and three arrests were made. Drugs seized on the premises, a laboratory, were valued at £40,000.—Reuter.

NATIONAL SAFETY QUERY.CONFERENCE MAY REVEAL THE TRUE MARGIN.*Premier's Remark.

London, Dec. 16. In the House of Commons to-day, Mr. W. H. Ayles (Labourite) asked the Premier whether Britain had commitments to the League of Nations or the British Empire which prevented the House of Commons itself from coming to any conclusion it deserved regarding disarmament.

Mr. Ramsay MacDonald replied that Article 8 of the Covenant of the League of Nations enjoined on all member States, and consequently on the British Government, the reduction of their armaments to the lowest point consistent with national safety and the enforcement by common action of international obligations.

Another article of the Covenant, said the Premier, imposed obligations to join in action for the common enforcement of certain undertakings. Britain's commitments as regarded the British Empire were dictated by needs of self-defence.

Mr. Ayles asked whether the Government believed there was still a margin so far as our own armaments were concerned that we could reduce down to what the Prime Minister had said was the level of national safety, and, if not why, should we go into the Disarmament Conference?

The Premier replied: "It is because may be that margin can be discovered only by international agreement that we are going into that Conference."—British Wireless.

AFRICAN HOLIDAY CLASH.NATIVES WOUNDED BY EUROPEANS.

Capetown, Dec. 16. Three natives were wounded, one seriously, at Potchefstroom when Europeans were alleged to have fired revolvers at natives during a Communist meeting in connexion with Dingaan's Day.

Dingaan's Day celebrations were otherwise peaceful. Demonstrators in Capetown burned effigies of General Smuts and Mrs. Hertzog.—Reuter.

Dingaan's Day is an annual holiday, being the anniversary of the defeat of the powerful native chief, Dingaan, by the Boers in 1838.

he had no official information in confirmation.

Cantonese Victory.

In answer to further questions, Mr. Henderson said as far as his information went, the forces opposed to the Nanking Government in China had been decisively defeated near Canton. Chang Fat-kwei's forces had been defeated to the north of Canton and the Kwangsi army on the West River had also been repulsed.

The anti-Nanking forces had made no further progress on any of the other main lines of attack.—Reuter and British Wireless.
